Size and Altitude Correlation in the Green Salamander, Aneides Aeneus Amy Dolores Atkins, 1988 *Seasonal Activity Pattern and Crevice Characteristics of the Green Salamander (Aneides Aeneus) in the Red River Gorge, Kentucky* Jason P. Ritzert, 2010

Green salamanders Aneides aeneus seasonal activity patterns have not been well documented across their range. The species exhibits high site fidelity to crevices in sandstone and limestone rock outcroppings; however, it is unclear why they select these habitats. Two sites at the Red River Gorge in Kentucky were monitored from 1 June 2006 to 30 July 2007. Each site was thoroughly searched and crevices used by green salamanders. 19 crevices marked as well as the three closest unused crevices. 57 crevices. Crevice height off the ground, width, length, aspect, and depth were determined for all used and unused crevices. During weekly visits to both study sites, crevice temperature and percent relative humidity were recorded. I found no significant difference between the temperature of used and unused crevices; however, the used crevices provided a high, stable percent relative humidity, approximately 92%, compared to unused crevices which had a lower, fluctuating humidity, approximately 60–85%. The physical characteristics of the used and unused crevices did not differ significantly. These results indicate green salamanders apparently use a crevice because it provides a consistently moist environment.

Distribution and Abundance of the Green Salamander (Aneides Aeneus) in Northeastern Mississippi Bailey Watkins, 2023 Some Aspects of the Physiological Ecology of the Green Salamander, *Aneides Aeneus Paul Vernon Cupp, 1970

The purpose of this paper is to measure some important physiological parameters involving the ecology of the green salamander Aneides aeneus. Measurements were made of oxygen consumption and heart rate at different temperatures: critical thermal maxima, vital limits of desiccation, and rehydration.
