Computation Works Xavier De Kestelier,Brady Peters,2013-04-15 Architects are now taking advantage of the computer in new ways through experimentation with algorithmic and simulation driven design Computation Works The Building of Algorithmic Thought focuses on this emerging theme in design practice showcasing built and soon to be built projects and providing a state of the art in computational design Computational design is considered to be first a design tool and second a series of instruments that can be applied in the creation of architecture It allows architects to incorporate performance analysis and knowledge about material tectonics and the parameters of production machinery Moving towards a new role as hybrid practitioners architects are taking concepts from other disciplines and customising architectural and other CAD software In addition to the discussion of built projects a further series of texts examines new custom software instruments New digital tools provide new modes of representation new methods of evaluation and new techniques for design exploration The development of new computational tools can create more responsive designs allowing architects to explore new design options and to analyse architectural decisions during the design process This issue raises important questions such as How is computation changing the way architects design Are the design tools and methods related to the result What is computational design in the context of architectural practice and How is computation changing the processes of design and construction

The Evolution of Computation in Architecture Michael Fox, Bradley Bell, 2024-10-31 This book is the first comprehensive overview of the pioneering works events and people that contributed to the paradigm shift defined by computation in architecture Only recently has computation fostered profound new ways of designing fabricating constructing and thinking about architecture While the profession sits at the end of the beginning of this historically transformative shift it is now possible to look back upon the rapidly maturing landscape of projects influencers and tools that have finally begun to catch up with the visionary thinking of the past Readers are guided through the fascinating and fast paced historical timeline of the development of computation in architecture Beginning with an account of the pioneering futuristic thinkers the authors then guide the reader through the birth of computation the appropriation of tools and the impact of experimentation on the profession leading into the legitimacy of research and how paradigms have been expanded The examples and influences are presented in a way that they can be understood and built upon This book is a must read for students of computation in architecture as well as researchers and practicing architects thinking about how the tools we use and the ways we design our buildings and environments with them can truly impact our lives

The Icon Project Leslie Sklair, 2017-02-27 In the last quarter century a new form of iconic architecture has appeared throughout the world's major cities Typically designed by globe trotting starchitects or by a few large transnational architectural firms these projects are almost always funded by the private sector in the service of private interests Whereas in the past monumental architecture often had a strong public component the urban ziggurats of today are emblems and conduits of capitalist globalization In The Icon Project Leslie Sklair focuses on ways in which capitalist globalization is produced and represented all over the world especially in globalizing cities Sklair traces how the iconic buildings of our era elaborate shopping malls spectacular museums and vast urban megaprojects constitute the triumphal Icon Project of contemporary global capitalism promoting increasing inequality and hyperconsumerism Two of the most significant strains of iconic architecture unique icons recognized as works of art designed by the likes of Gehry Foster Koolhaas and Hadid as well as successful derivative icons that copy elements of the starchitects work speak to the centrality of hyperconsumerism within contemporary capitalism Along with explaining how the architecture industry organizes the social production and marketing of iconic structures he also shows how corporations increasingly dominate the built environment and promote the trend towards globalizing consumerist cities The Icon Project Sklair argues is a weapon in the struggle to solidify capitalist hegemony as well as reinforce transnational capitalist control of where we live what we consume and how we think
