Some Far And Distant Place:

Some Far and Distant Place Jonathan S. Addleton, 2010-07-01 Born in Pakistan to Baptist missionaries from rural Georgia Jonathan S Addleton crossed the borders of race culture class and religion from an early age Some Far and Distant Place combines family history social observation current events and deeply personal commentary to tell an unusual coming of age story that has as much to do with the intersection of cultures as it does with one man's life Whether sharing ice cream with a young Benazir Bhutto or selling gospel tracts at the tomb of a Sufi saint Addleton provides insightful and sometimes hilarious glimpses into the Muslim Christian encounter through the eyes of a young child His narrative is rooted in many unlikely sources including a southern storytelling tradition Urdu ghazal revivalist hymnology and the Anglican Book of Common Prayer The natural beauty of the Himalayas also leaves a strong and lasting mark providing solidity in a confusing world that on occasion seems about to tilt out of control This clear eyed insightful memoir describes an experience that will become increasingly more common as cultures that once seemed remote and distant are no longer confined within the bounds of a single nation state

Gateway to the Dao-field Avraham Cohen, 2009 This book evolved from Avraham Cohen's doctoral dissertation for which he received the 2006 2007 Ted Aoki Prize for the Outstanding Dissertation in Curriculum Studies from the University of British Columbia Cohen who has an extensive background as a humanistic existential therapist and as a mindfulness meditator believes that these two fields have much to offer in the field of education His work in this book supplies a rich resource and shows that indeed the practice and philosophy of mindfulness and humanistic existential practices is a gold mine waiting to be fully mined and applied in education These ideas and practices come alive in his writings This collection of provocative and evocative essays written for both educational theorists and classroom practitioners addresses very directly the much neglected human dimension and community development potential within classrooms His groundbreaking work describes what most of us know intuitively to be important in classrooms and which is rarely adequately addressed how to be authentically and fully human and how this pedagogy of being human is central to becoming a great educator He points towards the practical implementation of pedagogic practices that integrate the personal inner work of the educator classroom practice and curriculum learning

Institutional Change and American Economic Growth L. E. Davis, Douglass C. North, Calla Smorodin, 1971-09-24 This book presents a model for examining problems of institutional change and applies it to American economic development in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The authors develop their model of institutional change They argue that if external economic factors make an increase in income possible but not attainable within the existing institutional structure new organizations must be developed to achieve the potential in income Their model is designed to explain the type and timing of these necessary changes in institutional organization Individual voluntary cooperative and governmental arrangements are included in the discussion although the latter differs considerably from the first two The Romancist and Novelist's Library William Hazlitt,1841 The Romancist, and novelist's library.
