Housing: Who Decides? P. King, M. Oxley, 2000-07-25 Housing Who Decides consists of a debate between a political theorist and an economist on decision making in housing Each author develops a normative argument linking theoretical and policy analyses to establish the abilities of the state and individuals to determine housing outcomes A Conservative Consensus? Peter King,2015-12-17 New Labour would like to portray 1997 as a new beginning for public policy but Peter King argues that we now have in housing and in other areas of public policy a consensus based on Thatcherite reforms He explores the particularly conservative understanding of housing that transformed public attitudes in the 1980s and 1990s and the impact it still has on policy This book is written with non housing specialists in mind and will be of interest to students of housing urban studies public policy and politics at both undergraduate and higher levels Choice and Diversity: an End to Monopoly in Social Housing John Swinney,2000-03-07 Housing, Social Policy and Difference Malcolm Harrison,Cathy Davis,2001-04-18 How does the welfare state and its institutions respond to impairment ethnicity and gender This book provides an overview of issues set in the context of housing From ethnic minority housing needs to the housing implications of domestic violence it shows how difference is regulated in housing Economics, Planning and Housing Michael Oxley,2004-05-04 This broad ranging new text applies economics analysis to the aims instruments and outcomes of land use planning and housing policies The core focus is on providing students with a substantive and sophisticated understanding of the relation of the state and market and such key current issues as sustainable development urban renaissance affordable housing and the relationships between planning housebuilding and house prices Drawing examples from Britain the rest of Europe and the USA it emphasizes the role of economics in promoting a theoretically informed and evidence based approach to policy formation and implementation Future of Social Housing Michael Oxley,2000-06 Greenfields, Brownfields and Housing Development David Adams,Craig Watkins,2008-04-15 The location of new housing development has become one of the most intractable controversies of modern times This book provides a powerful critique of the growing tendency to reduce the debate on the development of new housing to a mere choice between greenfield and brownfield locations It calls for full account to be taken of such factors as the structure and organisation of the housebuilding industry supply and demand pressures in the housing market the contested nature of sustainability and the political character of the planning process if a truly effective housing land policy is to be devised Drawing on theories from economics and political science this book will provide an important reference point on the institutional context within which residential development takes place and on the concerns of planning authorities environmentalists housebuilders and their customers in relation to the apparent choice between greenfield and brownfield development Housing Markets and Planning Policy Colin Jones,Craig Watkins,2009-10-08 Housing systems in many countries are now more market oriented than ever before This is particularly true of the UK where there is heightened interest in the ability of the market to deliver new housing as well as considerable debate among housing academics and policy makers over the extent to which policy instruments can be used to steer market processes This increased market orientation means a greater understanding of market economics is needed The challenges of providing affordable housing while simultaneously addressing the problems of low demand housing in some areas together with the revitalisation of neighbourhoods in need of renewal also underline the need for a better understanding of the structure and operation of housing markets at local and neighbourhood level This timely contribution to the field addresses the main housing and planning policy challenges in the UK today It does so by examining the structure and operation of the urban housing system and then exploring both conceptual and empirical analyses of the workings of the market The authors then consider the lessons for policy makers discussing the limitations of the policy framework and considering the strategies for integrating market information into the analysis undertaken in practice Housing Markets Planning Policy is an invaluable advanced text for students of land economy land management urban planning housing and urban studies The authors provide a uniquely detailed analysis of an important policy area that builds on a strong theoretical basis drawn from housing economics With the challenges posed by the instability of the housing market it will be of particular interest to academic researchers policy makers and housing and planning practitioners
