The Grizzly Our Greatest Wild Animal:

The Grizzly, Our Greatest Wild Animal Enos A. Mills, 2022-06-03 In The Grizzly Our Greatest Wild Animal Enos A. Mills presents an engaging exploration of the grizzly bear intertwining vivid descriptions of the animal with poignant reflections on its natural habitat and ecological significance. Mills employs a narrative style that blends scientific observation with literary artistry, capturing the majesty and vulnerability of these magnificent creatures. Set against the backdrop of the American wilderness in the early 20th century, the book serves not only as a natural history of the grizzly but also as a clarion call for conservation, highlighting the profound connections between humans and nature that were becoming increasingly threatened during his time. Enos A. Mills was a passionate naturalist, mountaineer, and advocate for the preservation of America's wild spaces. His deep-rooted affinity for the outdoors and firsthand experiences in the Rocky Mountains shaped his views on wildlife conservation and informed his writings. Mills was a key figure in the establishment of Rocky Mountain National Park, and his commitment to educating the public about the intrinsic value of nature is evident in this work. This book is highly recommended for readers interested in wildlife ecology and the early conservation movement. Mills' insightful prose and rich observations resonate with both timeless wisdom and urgent relevance, making it an essential read for anyone wishing to deepen their understanding of nature and our role in its preservation.

Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1919 edition. Excerpt the water on his side. For a second he lost sight of the log or pretended that he had and took swift glances this way and that. As it bumped into his up stream side he seized it with feigned surprise. Then he took it to the bank in shallow water, mauling it about biting and gnawing at it. As the log rolled from side to side he swam around it, batting it and pushing it under. A number of Clarke nutcrackers and magpies had collected and in astonishment watched the exhibition. Ordinarily a nutcracker is noisy in autumn, screaming and chuckling loudly and harshly. But these were motionless and silent as they watched. A passing magpie whirled aside to see the show and was just alighting on the bank when the bear splashed water wildly with a sweeping stroke at the log. With confused haste the magpie retreated. Taking a stand on a solitary spruce which leaned over the bank, he watched the scene without a move. The other birds equally intent watched from a high water log jam among large near-by boulders. At last the grizzly secured the log just under water. Standing upon it with hind feet, he reached down with both fore paws and went through an up and down motion like a washerwoman. Then he left the log and walked along the bank, keeping watch of it as it floated slowly down stream. It gradually pulled off from the bank. When it was about ten feet away he leaped playfully after it with feet outspread like those of a flying squirrel. Letting it drift again, he watched it intently as it was swept into the current and floated away in midstream. By swimming and wading he kept alongside for some distance, then put one fore paw upon it. Perhaps he was about to start something new, but just then he scented something over his right
