"Women, Workers, and Race in LIFE Magazine" Dolores Flamiano, 2017-07-05 The tension between social reform photography and photojournalism is examined through this study of the life and work of German girl Ansel Mieth 1909-1998 who made an unlikely journey from migrant farm worker to LIFE photographer She was the second woman in that role after Margaret Bourke White Unlike her colleagues Mieth was a working class reformer with a deep disdain for LIFE's conservatism and commercialism In fact her work often subverted LIFE's typical representations of women workers and minorities Some of her most compelling photo essays used skillful visual storytelling to offer fresh views on controversial topics birth control vivisection labor unions and Japanese American internment during the Second World War Her dual role as reformer and photojournalist made her a desirable commodity at LIFE in the late 1930s and early 40s but this role became untenable in Cold War America when her career was cut short Today Mieth's life and photographs stand as compelling reminders of the vital yet overlooked role of immigrant women in twentieth century photojournalism Women Workers and Race in LIFE Magazine draws upon a rich array of primary sources including Mieth's unpublished memoir oral histories and labor archives The book seeks to unravel and understand the multi layered often contested stories of the photographer's life and work. It will be of interest to scholars of photography history, women's studies, visual culture and media history.

Gender, Ageing and Extended Working Life Wendy Loretto, Clary Krekula, Sarah Vickerstaff, Debra Street, Aine Ni Leime, 2019-01-23

Nations that are raising retirement ages appear to work on the assumption that there is appropriate employment available for people who are expected to retire later. Gender ageing and extended working life challenges both this narrative and the gender neutral way the expectation for extending working lives is presented in most policy making circles. The international contributors to this book, part of the Ageing in a Global Context series, apply life course approaches to understanding evolving definitions of work and retirement. They consider the range of transitions from paid work to retirement that are potentially different for women and men in different family circumstances and occupational locations and offer solutions governments should consider to enable them to evaluate existing policies. Based on evidence from Australia, Germany, Ireland, Portugal, Sweden, the United Kingdom and the United States, this is essential reading for researchers and students and for policymakers who formulate and implement employment and pensions policy at national and international levels.
