New Directions for Student Services, 1997-2014: Glancing Back, Looking Forward

Elizabeth J. Whitt, John H. Schuh, 2015-09-11 Student affairs has changed greatly in the almost twenty years that the series editors have been managing New Directions for Student Services. This volume provides a look back at this period of time from 1997 through 2014 with topical chapters focused on trends in student affairs during the past two decades: changes in students and the most effective student affairs responses; progress and recommendations for assessment in student affairs and challenges with and skills needed for digital technologies; finance and budgets; and staff preparation. The volume concludes with a look into the future of student affairs practice based in part on the lessons learned from looking at the recent past. This is the 151st volume of this Jossey-Bass higher education quarterly series. An indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs, deans of students, student counselors, and other student services professionals. New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development: emotional, social, physical, and intellectual.

The Handbook of Student Affairs Administration

George S. McClellan, Jeremy Stringer, 2011-01-11 What issues and trends affect higher education and student affairs today? In this fully updated handbook, leading experts discuss the answer to this and other essential questions. They provide a definitive reference for student affairs professionals at all levels of administration and management. The handbook offers specific practical advice as well as broad approaches to planning and problem solving. It contains modernized discussions on such critical topics as institutional mission, institutional governance, understanding campus environments, finance and budgeting, assessment, program planning, staff selection, training, and evaluation, and much more.

Advancement Work in Student Affairs: The Challenges and Strategies Thomas E. Miller, 2010-06-21 Readers are encouraged to consider fundraising an essential component of their future as student affairs professionals. Chapter topics discussed include: The context for development work in student affairs; Getting started in student affairs development; Student affairs and alumni relations; Fundraising for student affairs at comprehensive institutions; Entrepreneurialism in student affairs: the Eckerd College Waterfront Program story; More than an open door: deploying philanthropy to student access and success in American Community Colleges; Suggestions for the path ahead; Student affairs divisions need to find ways to support themselves and move toward self-reliance and self-determination. The most important aspect of student affairs practice will always be in the context of institutional frameworks and mission, and it will always be characterized as a collaborative partnership with others. However, the best of student affairs operations will at the same time be characterized as self-sufficient, carrying their own weight, a goal best accomplished through a commitment to development work and fundraising. This volume aims to help student affairs professionals realize that goal. This is the 130th volume of the Jossey-Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services. An indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs, deans of students, student counselors, and other student services professionals. New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development emotional social physical and intellectual New Realities in the Management of Student Affairs Ashley Tull, Linda Kuk, 2023-07-03 Student affairs organizations are at a crossroads They face expanding enrollments a concomitant increase need for often more complex services changing demographics a growing cohort of non traditional and first generation students shifting and more demanding responsibilities and increased expectations from the greater campus community parents and external constituents These challenges are intensified by the accelerating speed of advancements in technology globalization innovation and student consumerism and by the long term reality of shrinking resources and limitations on the ability to increase tuition and fees This book shares alternative ideas about organizational design and about ways to restructure roles and responsibilities to enable student affairs organizations to respond to these challenges and demands more effectively at a time of reduced resources It also addresses the many emerging roles that student affairs organizations are increasingly being expected to address such as IT fund raising and development external communications human resources management and professional development as well as research and assessment and describes approaches developed by a variety of institutions The contributors also pay attention to the solutions appropriate for smaller institutions and for community colleges They explore the various dimensions of change and offer frameworks to help student affairs leaders and practitioners to more effectively understand and manage the changes they are confronting and describe ideas and solutions adopted by others within the profession Expanding the Donor Base in Higher Education Noah D. Drezner, 2013-04-17 Winner of the Association of Fundraising Professionals 2014 Skystone Partners Research Prize in Philanthropy and Fundraising Traditionally institutions have relied on wealthy White men to reach their fundraising goals But as state investment in public higher education lessens and institutions look to philanthropy to move from excellence to eminence advancement officers continually need to engage all populations including many that have historically been excluded from fundraising strategies Based on theory research and past practice Expanding the Donor Base in Higher Education explores how colleges and universities can build culturally sensitive fundraising and engagement strategies This edited book presents emerging research on different communities that have not traditionally been approached for fundraising including Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender and Queer LGBTQ alumni African Americans Latinos graduate students young alumni women and faculty donors Chapters discuss and analyze successful programs and provide practical suggestions and strategies to create and implement fundraising programs that engage these new donor populations Expanding the Donor Base in Higher Education is an essential resource for any institution looking to expand their pool of donors and cultivate a more philanthropic mindset among alumni and students Strategic Directions for Career Services Within the University Setting Kelli K.
