the modern world as the United States moved from a primarily agricultural society to a mining nation in the second half of the nineteenth century In Montana legal issues and politics such as unexpected consequences of federal mining law and the electrification of the United States further complicated the mining industry's already complex relationship to geology while government policy legal frameworks dominant understandings of nature and the exigencies of profit and production drove the industry in momentous and surprising directions Despite its many uncertainties mining became an important part of American culture and daily life Gambling on Ore unpacks the tangled relationships between mining and the natural world that gave material possibility to the age of electricity Metal mining has had a profound influence on the human ecology and the social relationships of North America through the twentieth century and throughout the world after World War II Understanding how we forged these relationships is central to understanding the environmental history of the United States after 1850 Technology on the Frontier Dianne Newell, 2011-11-01 This book tells about a frontier region in economic transition Its focus is the successful adoption of new technology to the particular economic and engineering circumstances associated with the newness or frontier nature of Ontario mining to 1890 Social Approaches to an Industrial Past Eugenia W. Van Vugt,2021-03-15 Portrait of an English Migration recounts the history of those who left North Yorkshire for North America between the eighteenth century and the early twentieth century Focusing on individual stories of migrants and their families this book provides many personal glimpses of the migration experience of those who left England's largest county to build new lives in the United States and Canada Exploring the local history geography and cultures of Yorkshire and the key places of settlement in North America William Van Vugt deepens our understanding of the historic migration process how local conditions and access to information influenced migration decisions the role of local networks in migration patterns and the significance of family connections religious identities and land ownership to the migrants themselves He considers the extent to which English migrants shaped regional culture and contributed to economic development addressing ongoing questions about identity and what it meant to be English in North America Full of first person accounts and stories from migrants themselves Portrait of an English Migration is both a sweeping history of two centuries of migration and an intimate look at the lives of generations of Yorkshire people who crossed the ocean to make a new home Race and Reconciliation in South Africa William E. Van Vugt, G. Daan Cloete, 2000-01-01 In the mid 1990s the Truth and Reconciliation Commission disclosed its findings on the awful reality of the apartheid era in South Africa The Commission inspired scholars from Europe North America and South Africa to convene a group of their own to investigate in multicultural scholarly dialogue the history theology philosophy and politics of race and reconciliation in South Africa This volume is the product of that important dialogue And while the focus is the particular environment of South Africa the contributors work within a comparative perspective using examples from other nations and cultures to explore that which makes South Africa unique Ultimately the book aims to offer not only a better understanding of the depth of injustice in South Africa's past but also a deeper appreciation for the achievement of the present and the promise of the future in South Africa and in every other multiethnic region in the world Changing Places Kerry Margaret Abel, 2006 Drawing from archival oral and newspaper sources Kerry Abel examines the process by which a relatively coherent community emerged in the sub region of northern Ontario bounded by Timmins Iroquois Falls and Matheson Politics, Labor, and the War on Big Business David R.
