Bibliography* , 1993-07 Quick Bibliography Series , 1976 Cinema and the Sandinistas Jonathan Buchsbaum, 2003-10-01 Following the Sandinista Revolution in 1979 young bohemian artists rushed to the newly formed Nicaraguan national film institute INCINE to contribute to the recovery of national identity through the creation of a national film project Over the next eleven years the filmmakers of INCINE produced over seventy films documentary fiction and hybrids that collectively reveal a unique vision of the Revolution drawn not from official FSLN directives but from the filmmakers own cinematic interpretations of the Revolution as they were living it This book examines the INCINE film project and assesses its achievements in recovering a Nicaraguan national identity through the creation of a national cinema Using a wealth of firsthand documentation the films themselves interviews with numerous INCINE personnel and INCINE archival records Jonathan Buchsbaum follows the evolution of INCINE s project and situates it within the larger historical project of militant revolutionary filmmaking in Latin America His research also raises crucial questions about the viability of national cinemas in the face of accelerating globalization and technological changes which reverberate far beyond Nicaragua s experiment in revolutionary filmmaking Still Fighting Katherine Isbester, 2001-07-15 The story of the women s movement in Nicaragua is a fascinating tale of resistance strategy and faith From its birth in 1977 under the Somoza dictatorship through the Sandinista revolution to the fall of the Chamorro government the Nicaraguan women s movement has navigated revolutionary upheaval profound changes in government and rapidly shifting definitions of women s roles in society Through it all the movement has surged regressed and persevered entering the twenty first century a powerful and influential force stretching from the grassroots to the national level How did women in an economically underdeveloped Central American country with little history of organizing feminism or democracy succeed in creating networks organizations and campaigns that carved out a gender identity and challenged dominant ideologies both revolutionary and conservative In Still Fighting Katherine Isbester seeks to understand She analyzes the complex and rich case of Nicaragua in order to learn more about the dynamics of social movements in general and women s organizing in particular Social movement theory offers Isbester an analytic tool to explain the extraordinary evolution of the Nicaraguan movement She theorizes that a sustainable movement is composed of three elements a focused goal a mobilization of resources and an identity The lack of any one of these weakens a social movement Isbester shows how this theory is borne out by the experience of the Nicaraguan women s movement over the past thirty years She demonstrates for example how the revolutionary government of the 1980s co opted the women s movement crippling its ability to create an autonomous identity choose its own goals and mobilize resources independent of the state Hence it lost legitimacy membership and influence She traces the movement s resurgence in the 1990s the result of its redefinition as an autonomous movement organized around an identity of care Still Fighting combines social theory with field research leading a new wave of scholarship on women in Latin America Isbester interviewed more than a hundred key participants in the women s movement in addition to members of the National Assembly male leaders of other social movements and women outside the movement In Nicaragua she was witness to much political organizing enabling her to reveal the organic intricacy as well as the historical path of a social movement Still Fighting will be an important book for a broad range of students and professionals in the areas of social movements social change gender politics and Latin America

Women's Activism and Feminist Agency in Mozambique and Nicaragua Jennifer Leigh Disney, 2008 In Women s Activism and Feminist Agency in Mozambique and Nicaragua Jennifer Leigh Disney investigates the contours of women s emancipation outside the framework of liberal democracy and a market economy She interviews 146 women and men in the two countries to explore the comparative contribution of women s participation in subsistence and informal economies political parties and civil society organizations She also discusses military struggles against colonialism and imperialism in fostering feminist agency to provide a fascinating look at how each movement evolved and how it changed in a post revolutionary climate
