term view of India's economic transition. The idea that urban growth goes hand in hand with the modernisation of the country does not account for the fact that increasingly higher portions of the urban population are comprised of lower income groups, casual labourers and slum dwellers. Using the case study of Ahmedabad, this book investigates the history of the city and of its people over the twentieth century. It analyses the contrasting relationship between urban authorities and the inhabitants of Ahmedabad and examines instances of antagonism and negotiation amongst people groups and between the people and the public authority that have continuously shaped, transformed and redefined life in the city. This book offers an important tool for understanding the bigger context of the conflicts, the social and cultural issues that accompanied the broader process of urbanisation in contemporary India. It will be of interest to scholars of Urban History, studies of collective violence and South Asian Studies.

Tribes of India Rann Singh Mann, 1996. This comprehensive account reflects the thinking, insight and experience of very senior Indian anthropologists. The concerns expressed involve macro mapping of India's tribal scenario in its diverse perspective. Challenges and alternative from another front which has been debated upon in various phases of descriptions. Where do the Indian tribes stand at the turn of the century is so well documented in this volume that anyone interested in them would have no alternative but to join the stream of these anthropological thinkers and empiricists who realize that many odds continue to mark the philosophy, policy, ground level reality etc.

Manchester of the East S P Mehra, 2020-11-18. Kanpur was a tiny hamlet until the railways arrived in India and later a British garrison. The bloody events during the 1857 War of Independence led to a clampdown on the city and under rigorous British supervision, industry began. The wars that Britain was fighting in South Africa, Russia and Afghanistan furthered the development of Kanpur into a hub of supply for the best military boots and other leather goods. Mills were set up and by 1900s Kanpur became synonymous with high quality products and top of the class mills. Both Indians and Europeans were responsible for this transformation of a tiny dot on the map of the Indian subcontinent into the world's best supply centre for leather, cotton, jute and other materials. In this rivetting account of the transformation of a hamlet into what became known as the Manchester of the East, Suraj Prasad Mehra describes the evolution of the city over two hundred years from the 1800s. He introduces us to events and incidents as well as individuals and governments that were responsible for making Kanpur what it eventually became and what it is today.
