Gender, Interaction, and Inequality Cecilia L. Ridgeway, 2013-03-09 Causal explanations are essential for theory building In focusing on causal mechanisms rather than descriptive effects the goal of this volume is to increase our theoretical understanding of the way gender operates in interaction Theoretical analyses of gender's effects in interaction in turn are necessary to understand how such effects might be implicated with individual level and social structural level processes in the larger system of gender inequality Despite other differences the contributors to this book all take what might be loosely called a microstructural approach to gender and interaction All agree that individuals come to interaction with certain common socially created beliefs cultural meanings experiences and social rules These include stereotypes about gendered activities and skills beliefs about the status value of gender rules for interacting in certain settings and so on However as individuals apply these beliefs and rules to the specific contingent events of interaction they combine and reshape their implications in distinctive ways that are particular to the encounter As a result individuals actively construct their social relations in the encounter through their interaction The patterns of relations that develop are not completely determined or scripted in advance by the beliefs and rules of the larger society Consequently there is a reciprocal causal relationship between constructed patterns of interaction and larger social structural forms The constructed patterns of social relations among a set of interactants can be thought of as micro level social structures or more simply microstructures

Neil Guppy, 1999 The purpose of the book is to introduce students to issues of social inequality in Canada It includes a collection of 30 articles which address all of the major aspects of social inequality Topics include social inequality social class social stratification social issues and Canadian Society The book begins from the premise that social inequality entails two broad components objective or structural conditions of social inequality and ideologies that help support these differences An Economic Sociology of Immigrant Life in Canada Abdolmohammad Kazemipour, 2004 Not long ago the integration of immigrants in host societies was perceived mostly in terms of assimilation an overly simplistic scenario based on which immigrants would learn the language and culture of the native population and the rest would just follow However the developments of the past two decades have shown just how complex this process can be This new book shows the diverse experiences of various groups of immigrants This book takes a fresh look at the experiences of immigrants to Canada The contents of the book are based on over five years of research the author has carried out in Canada and elsewhere using a variety of data sources from quantitative census data through specially designed survey information to materials derived from qualitative research The book is structured in such a way that it can be beneficial to a wide range of readers those interested in in depth examination of immigration issues those leaning more towards narrative texts and those looking only for general research trends and theoretical and policy implications Literature The Calm Before the Storm Preparing to Migrate to Canada Have and Have nots Poverty Experiences of Immigrants The New Kid in Town Neighbourhood Poverty and Economic Performance What You Know and Who You Know Human Capital Social Capital and Immigrant Life Wrap up and Implications References Index Urban Segregation and the Welfare State Sako Musterd, Wim Ostendorf, 2013-04-15 Urban Segregation and the Welfare State examines ethnic and socio economic segregation patterns social polarisation and social exclusion in major cities in the Western world Contributors from across North America and Europe provide in depth analysis of particular cities ranging from Johannesburg Chicago and Toronto to Amsterdam Stockholm and Belfast The authors highlight the social problems in and of cities indicating differences between nation states in terms of economic restructuring migration welfare state regimes and ethnic history Contemporary Debates in the Sociology of Education R. conducts a comparative analysis between Germany and the participating Canadian Provinces concerning the association between parental involvement social background and reading achievement This direct country comparison is extended by conducting analyses on performance groups as well as on differences between the Canadian provinces Quebec and Ontario The approach of the current study is to use general results of large scale assessment data to identify differences between countries and groups and to provide a more in depth analysis of the data A broad literature review helps to interpret the results more accurately taking additional information about the country contexts into account Dr Imogen Feld Studium der Soziologie an der Philipps Universit t Marburg 2016 Promotion an der Universit t Hamburg seit 2012 wissenschaftliche Mitarbeiterin im Arbeitsbereich Evaluation von Bildungssystemen in der Fakult t Erziehungswissenschaft an der Universit t Hamburg Forschungsschwerpunkte Soziale Disparit ten elterliche Eingebundenheit im Schulkontext Citizenship Education und international vergleichende Erziehungswissenschaft Imogen Feld studied sociology at the Philipps University Marburg She received her PhD from the Faculty of Education of the University of Hamburg She worked for several years in the working group Evaluation of Educational Systems

Absent Citizens Michael J. Prince, 2009-04-22 Disability exists in the shadows of public awareness and at the periphery of policy making People with disabilities are in many respects missing from the theories and practices of social rights political participation employment and civic membership Absent Citizens brings to light these chronic deficiencies in Canadian society and emphasizes the effects that these omissions have on the lives of citizens with disabilities Drawing together elements from feminist studies political science public administration sociology and urban studies Michael J Prince examines mechanisms of exclusion and inclusion public attitudes on disability and policy making processes in the context of disability Absent Citizens also considers social activism and civic engagements by people with disabilities and disability community organizations highlighting presence rather than absence and advocating both inquiry and action to ameliorate the marginalization of an often overlooked segment of the Canadian population

Social Capital, Diversity, and the Welfare State Fiona Kay, Richard

Johnston,2011-11-01 Social capital is arguably the most critical idea to emerge in the social sciences in the last two decades Emphasizing the importance of social networks communication and the symbolic and material exchanges that strengthen communities social capital has been the subject of an expansive body of literature Social Capital Diversity and the Welfare State represents a landmark consideration of the diverse meanings causal foundations and positive and negative consequences of social capital with a particular focus on its role in mitigating or enhancing social inequalities The chapters written by economists political scientists and sociologists address a range of empirical and theoretical issues This book is cutting edge addition to the field that offers fresh insights into the conceptualization operation sources and consequences of social capital in Canadian society Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work ,2010-01-01 In the past two decades advanced capitalist countries have seen sustained growth in labour market participation along with a growth in the number of jobs workers tend to have in their working lives Over a slightly longer period we also see that participation in both formal educational attainment and a range of non compulsory learning training has grown However labour market discrimination based on gender age disability and race ethnicity remains a serious issue in virtually all OECD countries Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work presents a critical and expansive exploration of learning and work transitions within this context These transitions are challenging for those enmeshed in them and need to be actively challenged through the critical research reported The impetus for this volume its conceptual framing and much of the research emerges from the team of Canadian researchers who together completed case study and survey projects within the Work and Lifelong Learning WALL network The authors include leading scholars with established international reputations as well as emerging researchers with fresh perspectives This volume will appeal to researchers and policy makers internationally with an interest in educational studies and industrial sociology Choosing to Labour? Wolfgang Lehmann,2007-08-06 Young people about to leave high school argue that they are determining their own destinies Scholarly debates also suggest that the influence of structural factors such as social class on an individual s life course is decreasing Wolfgang Lehmann challenges this view and offers a detailed comparative analysis of the inter relationships between social class institutional structures and individual educational and career choices Through a qualitative study of academic track high school students and participants in youth apprenticeships in Germany and Canada Lehmann shows how the range of available school work transition options are defined by both gender and social class Highlighting the importance of the institutional context in understanding school work transitions particularly in relation to Germany s celebrated apprenticeship system which rests on highly streamed secondary schooling and a stratified labour market Lehmann argues that social inequalities are maintained in part by the choices made by young people rather than simply by structural forces Choosing to Labour concludes with an exploration of how public policy can meet the dual challenge of providing young people with meaningful and equitable educational experiences while simultaneously fulfilling the need for a skilled workforce
