Social Gains from Female Education K. Subbarao, Laura Raney, 1993-01-01 Desired Fertility and the Impact of Population Policies Lant Pritchett, Lawrence H. Summers, 1994 Interculturalism, Society and Education , 2010-01-01 In no part of the world today is the concept of intercultural exchange a novelty and in many parts of the world it has even been a long tradition Nevertheless recent globalization forces have combined to accelerate many aspects of migration and intercultural confrontation As a result we see an emerging world society in which intercultural mixing and conflict are salient characteristics rather than being exceptional situations or embryonic phases of societal development The need for intercultural education and for intercultural dialogue in various forms has become universal All people have an obligation to participate in and take responsibility for world peace balanced sustainable development and democratic dialogue to create the capacity to live together Persistent and increasingly complex patterns of population movement with all of the societal ramifications that accompany them demand consideration of ways in which different societies respond to issues of intercultural education and dialogue both historically and currently Interculturalism Society and Education contains contributions that explore comparative and international case studies ranging from accounts of educational problems impacting specific immigrant groups in Europe socio educational programs and projects in Africa and Asia comparative analyses of citizenship education issues in selected countries and a global overview of different patterns of the interculturalism society education nexus This volume offers a sampling of the multiplicity of intercultural forms around the world useful for policy makers and educators across the spectrum of institutions and organizations that strive to open paths for positive intercultural exchange through education Borrower Ownership of Adjustment Programs and the Political Economy of Reform John H. Johnson, Sulaiman S. Wasty, 1993-01-01 China has done much to reform its price system achieve macroeconomic stability and restore growth Nevertheless price distortions remain in three key areas This study suggests further price reforms for the energy grain and transport sectors It explains why energy price adjustments should have only a modest effect on consumer prices but a highly positive effect on the economy It discusses why China may have to reduce consumer subsidies to achieve the necessary reforms for grain prices The study describes what the government must do to strengthen commodity markets generate competition and make allowances for seasonal price variations China's transport sector has been a critical development bottleneck The paper reviews tariff adjustments and other reforms that would modernize the transport system and help it meet growing demand These reforms also would encourage energy conservation and help integrate the national economy Gender, Education and Development Christine Heward, Sheila Bunwaree, 1999 This book grounds the education of women and girls in the realities of their lives and experience in diverse areas of the developing world The case studies range from the Arakambut of Peru to the changing experience of racialized education in South Africa The contributors take issue with the World Bank's view that the education of girls and women is important primarily as a cost effective mechanism for making women more economically productive

Korean Industrial Policy Danny M. Leipziger, Peter A. Petri, 1993 The World Bank is changing the way it does business in the energy sector This Policy Paper is one of two that outlines the Bank's new policies for the sector The review was prompted by concern about the effects of power generation on the environment and on populations that may be resettled to make way for projects Another stimulus was the macroeconomic reality of fewer investment resources in many countries And many developing countries are becoming more receptive to reforming the way energy is produced and consumed This paper credits the public monopoly approach of the last 30 years with facilitating expansion of power supplies capturing technical economies of scale and making effective use of scarce managerial and technical skills Nonetheless it recommends several new policies to improve the performance of the electric power sector in developing countries These reforms will guide future Bank activities in the sector Bank loans for electric power will go first to countries clearly committed to improving the performance of their power sectors The Bank will also discourage subsidies on energy prices and will encourage private investment in utilities And it will provide financing to help the least developed countries import power where local generation is not practical The efficiency of production and use of electric power in developing countries is examined in a companion paper Energy Efficiency and Conservation in the Developing World The World Bank's Role The World Bank's Role in the Electric Power Sector is also available in Spanish La función del Banco Mundial en el sector de la electricidad Políticas para efectuar una reforma institucional regulatoria y financiera eficaz ISBN 0 8213 2451 9 Stock No 12451 7 95 Price code 007 Spanis

Raising the Productivity of Women Farmers in Sub-Saharan Africa Katrine Anderson Saito, Hailu Mekonnen, Daphne Spurling, 1994 World Bank Discussion Paper 230 Based on four country studies and extensive household surveys this paper documents the breakdown of traditional farming systems in Sub Saharan Africa and its implications for the role of women in agriculture

Population Growth, Shifting Cultivation, and Unsustainable Agricultural Development Andrew Keck, Narendra P. Sharma, Gershon Feder, 1994-01-01 World Bank Discussion Paper 234 This study of a microregion of Madagascar illustrates the important relationships between population growth unsustainable agriculture and natural resource decline It shows how agricultural development has been hampered

Bridges and Barriers Eddie Williams, 2014-06-03 Recent decades have seen sub Saharan Africa decline in both economic and human terms The rich North has responded with a barrage of well publicized initiatives from pop concerts to international commitments on debt relief aid trade and good governance Among the complex of factors necessary to sustain economic and human development education receives little media coverage although it is crucial However education must be effective This book argues that in Anglophone Africa education is not effective because of the use of English rather than children's first languages both as the medium of instruction and also as the language in which children are first taught to read Research is presented from Malawi and Zambia countries with contrasting language policies using evidence from tests in English and African languages small group discussions and classroom observation The findings show that English medium policies in Africa do not give students any advantage in English over first language policies while the use of English discriminates against girls and rural children The book concludes that much education in Africa is a barrier rather than a bridge to learning because of the prevailing language ideology which has resulted in massive over estimation of the value of English While appropriate language policies alone will not solve education and development difficulties in Africa they do have a positive contribution to make The evidence presented here suggests they are failing to make that contribution

Information Technology in World Bank Lending Nagy Hanna, Sandor Boyson, 1993-01-01 This study describes a strategy to reduce poverty by boosting labor productivity and economic growth It focuses on Uganda's two key sectors agriculture and industry The strategy seeks to make Uganda a self sufficient food producer and a major crop exporter It also advocates policies that would make the nation less dependent on imports and better at marketing its own products Some suggestions include ways to improve labor markets raise agricultural output and broaden the tax base Other recommendations discuss ways to develop the financial sector and spur savings and investment Also examined are the government's economic adjustment policies and their effects on the poor Analysts point out the different ways that poverty affects men and women The study also discusses how to increase public funds for social services that would improve the labor force It recommends policies that will help women become full partners in Uganda's development Tables and other illustrations throughout the text provide detailed statistics on Uganda's economic status Topics include crop yields poverty indicators gross domestic product and public sector expenses

Proceedings of a Conference on Currency Substitution and Currency Boards Nissan Liviatan, 1993-01-01 Eighteen well known policymakers and economists discuss the rising use of currency substitution in Latin America They examine the effects of currency boards on substitute currencies and on national stabilization programs Latin American countries including Argentina Bolivia Peru and Uruguay increasingly use dollars as a substitute for domestic currency The experts debate whether the region should encourage or resist this trend Topics include the effects of substitution on inflation liquidity and exchange rates The discussions on Argentina Peru and Brazil focus on the ways in which currency boards have affected stabilization in these countries They consider whether such boards can strengthen fiscal discipline and speed economic adjustment A currency board issues money that is converted into a foreign reserve currency at a fixed exchange rate This independent institution takes over the central bank's role as the sole issuer of base money It also manages the exchange rate to keep the currency stable and convertible

Criminals in the Making John Paul Wright, Stephen G. Tibbetts, Leah E. Daigle, 2014-02-10 Why do individuals exposed to the same environment turn out so differently with some engaging in crime and others abiding by societal rules and norms Why are males involved in violent crime more often than females And why do the precursors of serious pathological behavior typically emerge in childhood This fascinating text addresses key questions surrounding criminal propensity by discussing studies of the life course perspective criminological research that links biological factors associated with criminality with the social and environmental agents thought to cause facilitate or otherwise influence a tendency towards criminal activity The book provides comprehensive interdisciplinary coverage of the current thinking in the field about criminal behavior over the course of a lifetime Additionally it highlights interventions proven effective and illustrates how the life course perspective has contributed to a greater understanding of the causes of crime The Design and Administration of Intergovernmental Transfers Donald R. Winkler,1994-01-01 World Bank Discussion Paper 235 This paper evaluates Latin America s experience in the transfer of certain responsibilities from the national to the subnational levels of government The experience of countries that have already decentralized the Public and Private Agricultural Extension Dina Umali-Deininger,Lisa A. Schwartz,1994-01-01 World Bank Discussion Paper 236 Agricultural support services play an important role in increasing agricultural productivity Given the importance of agriculture to developing countries governments have taken the lead in providing such services Developing Effective Employment Services David Fretwell,Susan Goldberg,1993-01-01 Employment services promote the efficient allocation of labor by among other things promoting labor mobility and improving productivity This paper assesses the cost effectiveness of services designed to expedite the exchange of labor between job seekers and employers The authors find that the benefits of employment services are not uniform Benefits may be reduced in small countries with a large informal sector or when the economy is stagnant and the demand for labor is depressed even though the need for the services may be greater under such conditions The authors advocate a balance between public and private sector delivery of employment services They favor opening the private market for what they term support services which increase productivity and include income support and retraining Such support services are distinct from what the authors call core services provision of which they believe is properly left to the public sector Core services to assist job seekers include job placement services relocation assistance counseling and skills assessment The authors find that core services are cost effective and that public sector providers can ensure that such services are delivered to unemployed low skilled or semiskilled workers whose needs may not be met by the private sector The paper reviews the justification for and development of employment services over time and compares various approaches to the provision of such services It reviews the various types of employment services and examines the differences between public and private sector delivery Care Relations in Southeast Asia Patcharawalai

Wongboonsin,Jo-pei Tan,2018-11-26 Care Relations in Southeast Asia The Family and Beyond edited by Patcharawalai Wongboonsin and Jo Pei Tan examines the care relations and transactions within and beyond the family network across three middle income Southeast Asian countries namely the Federation of Malaysia the Kingdom of Thailand and the Socialist Republic of Vietnam at the national and sub national level On the national level changes and continuity in care relations along the changing demographic socio economic and political contexts of each country are addressed On the sub national level the complex dimensions of care relations are analyzed by looking at the attitude towards and practice of elderly and child care within between and beyond the family system These regional analyses are based on merged data of three most recent family surveys in Kuala Lumpur Bangkok Metropolis and Hanoi Alternative and innovative policy recommendations for current and future challenges are also offered Contains contributions by Asmidawati Ashari Ki Soo Eun Tengku Aizan Hamid Rahimah Ibrahim Thuttai Keeratipongpaiboon Nguyen Huu Minh Pataporn Sukontamarn Jo Pei Tan Tran Thi Minh Thi Kua Wongboonsin and Patcharawalai Wongboonsin The Contributions of Infrastructure to Economic Development Christine Kessides,1993-01-01 This paper reviews the linkages between infrastructure and economic development based on both formal empirical research and informal case studies The main thesis is that economic benefits result from investments in infrastructure only to the extent that they generate a sustainable flow of services valued by consumers Thus an analysis of infrastructures contributions to growth must look at the impacts of services as actually perceived not at indirect indicators that measure only aggregate provision of infrastructure capital The paper notes that macro and industry level research although having its limitations suggest a positive and statistically significant relationship between infrastructure and economic output However the conclusions derived from this research most of which derives from developed countries provide little specific guidance for policy To gain more practical insights about how infrastructure contributes to economic growth and to improved quality of life and to understand the welfare costs of inadequate or unreliable infrastructure it is necessary to look at microeconomic evidence Particularly interesting illustrations of these relationships are to be found in developing countries where there is wide variance in the availability and quality of infrastructure
