The National Pastime A Review Of Baseball History 24:

The Farmers' Game David Vaught, 2012-10-17 A journey through the national pastime's roots in America's small towns and wide open spaces An absorbing read The Tampa Tribune In the film Field of Dreams the lead character gives his struggling farming community a magical place where the smell of roasted peanuts gently wafts over the crowded grandstand on a warm summer evening just as the star pitcher takes the mound In The Farmers Game David Vaught examines the history and character of baseball through a series of essay vignettes presenting the sport as essentially rural reflecting the nature of farm and small town life Vaught does not deny or devalue the lively stickball games played in the streets of Brooklyn but he sees the history of the game and the rural United States as related and mutually revealing His subjects include nineteenth century Cooperstown the playing fields of Texas and Minnesota the rural communities of California the great farmer pitcher Bob Feller and the notorious Gaylord Perry Although contrary to legend Abner Doubleday did not invent baseball in a cow pasture in upstate New York many fans enjoy the game for its nostalgic qualities Vaught's deeply researched exploration of baseball's rural roots helps explain its enduring popularity

Canada and Mexico The Benton Harbor teams invented the pepper game and were winners year after year becoming legends in barnstorming baseball Initially a loose affiliation of players the Davids expanded to three teams Western Central and Eastern as their reputation grew and hired outsiders to fill the rosters Prominent among them were pitchers Grover Cleveland Alexander and Charlie Chief Bender both player managers in the early 1930s They resisted the color barrier eagerly facing Negro League teams everywhere In 1934 before their largest crowd to date they defeated the first Negro team invited to the famed Denver Post Tournament the great Kansas City Monarchs for the championship

Baseball's Pivotal Era, 1945-1951 William Marshall, 2014-10-17 With personal interviews of players and owners and with over two decades of research in newspapers and archives Bill Marshall tells of the players the pennant races and the officials who shaped one of the most memorable eras in sports and American history At the end of World War II soldiers returning from overseas hungered to resume their love affair with baseball Spectators still identified with players whose salaries and off season employment as postmen plumbers farmers and insurance salesmen resembled their own It was a time when kids played baseball on sandlots and in pastures fans followed the game on the radio and tickets were affordable The outstanding play of Joe DiMaggio Stan Musial Ted Williams Bob Feller Don Newcombe Warren Spahn and many others dominated the field But perhaps no performance was more important than that of Jackie Robinson whose entrance into the game broke the color barrier won him the respect of millions of Americans and helped set the stage for the civil rights movement Baseball's Pivotal Era 1945-1951 also records the attempt to organize the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Mexican League's success in luring players south of the border that led to a series of lawsuits that almost undermined baseball's reserve clause and antitrust exemption The result was spring training pay uniform contracts minimum salary levels player representation and a pension plan the very issues that would divide players and owners almost fifty years later During these years the game was led by A B Happy Chandler a hand shaking speech making singing Kentucky politician Most owners thought he would be easily manipulated unlike baseball's first commissioner the autocratic Judge Kennesaw Mountain Landis

Instead Chandler's style led one owner to complain that he was the player's commissioner the fan's commissioner the press and radio commissioner everybody's commissioner but the men who pay him
