Laumann, Stephen Ellingson, Jenna Mahay, Anthony Paik, Yoosik Youm, 2005-08-01 We think of the city as a place where anything goes Take the sensational fantasies and lurid antics of single women on Sex in the City or young men on Queer as Folk and you might imagine the city as some kind of sexual playground a place where you can have any kind of sex you want with whomever you like anytime or anywhere you choose But in The Sexual Organization of the City Edward Laumann and company argue that this idea is a myth Drawing on extensive surveys and interviews with Chicago adults they show that the city is to the contrary a place where sexual choices and options are constrained From Wicker Park and Boys Town to the South Side and Pilsen they observe that sexual behavior and partnering are significantly limited by such factors as which neighborhood you live in your ethnicity what your sexual preference might be or the circle of friends to which you belong In other words the social and institutional networks that city dwellers occupy potentially limit their sexual options by making different types of sexual activities relationships or meeting places less accessible To explain this idea of sex in the city the editors of this work develop a theory of sexual marketplaces the places where people look for sexual partners They then use this theory to consider a variety of questions about sexuality Why do sexual partnerships rarely cross racial and ethnic lines even in neighborhoods where relatively few same ethnicity partners are available Why do gay men and lesbians have few public meeting spots in some neighborhoods but a wide variety in others Why are African Americans less likely to marry than whites Does having a lot of friends make you less likely to get a sexually transmitted disease And why do public health campaigns promoting safe sex seem to change the behaviors of some but not others Considering vital questions such as these and shedding new light on the city of Chicago this work will profoundly recast our ideas about human sexual behavior Terrorism and the Politics of Fear David L. Altheide, 2017-06-27 This thoughtful text demonstrates how the mass media constructs a politics of fear in the United States Using a social interactionist perspective the chapters examines such issues as the expansion of surveillance on the Internet the construction of a terrorism fighting hero to promote patriotism the use of social media by terror groups the fear of the other fostered by the refugee crisis and western radicalization as well as the mass mediated reaction to recent terrorist attacks Also covered are the politics of fear involving disease Ebola Zika social control efforts and harsh attacks on American governmental officials for not keeping people safe from harm All chapters in this new edition have been updated with descriptions and relevant analysis of significant events including two Israeli Hamas wars terrorism attacks e g Boston Marathon Charlie Hebdo San Bernadino etc global reactions often hostility to refugees in the United States and especially Europe the development of ISIS surveillance Wiki Leaks Snowden NSA and the growing significance of social media The text explains how the social construction of fear is used to steer public and foreign policy arguing that security policies to protect the citizenry from violence have become control systems that most often curtail privacy and civil liberties Concepts of the Self Anthony Elliott, 2013-11-12 More than ten years on from its original publication Concepts of the Self still mesmerizes with its insight comprehensiveness and critique of debates over the self in the social sciences and humanities Anthony Elliott has written a new preface to this third edition to address some of the most recent developments in the field and offers a powerful challenge to what he describes as the emergence of anti theories of the self The first two editions have proven exceptionally popular among students and teachers worldwide Anthony Elliott provides a scintillating introduction to the major accounts of the self from symbolic interactionism and psychoanalysis to post feminism and postmodernism This new edition has been extensively revised and updated to take account of more recent theoretical developments and a new chapter has been added on individualization which focuses on how the self becomes an agent of do it yourself autobiographical reconstruction in an age of intensive globalization Concepts of the Self remains the most lively lucid and compelling introduction to contemporary controversies over the self and self identity in the social sciences and humanities Written by an author of international reputation it connects debates about the self directly to identity politics the sociology of personal relationships and intimacy and the politics of sexuality and will continue to be an invaluable introductory text for students in of social and political theory sociology social psychology cultural studies and gender studies The African American
