Cosmopolitical Ecologies Across Asia Riimsara Kuyakanon, Hildegard Diemberger, David Sneath, 2021-11-25 Cosmopolitical Ecologies Across Asia offers a unique insight into the non human and spiritual dimensions of environmental management in a changing world This volume presents a comparative place based exploration of landscapes across Asia and the entities practices and knowledges that inhabit them Rather than treating sacred mountains terrains and water sources as self contained esoteric religious phenomena the authors consider them within critical cosmopolitical ecologies framings in which non human entities are engaged as actors in the socio political arena The chapters include case studies of healing springs recognized by governments and sacred mountains that are addressed by heads of states and Communist Party cadres or that speak to the faithful through spirit mediums in a politics of re enchantment Contributors explore the diverse ways in which non human entities such as forest spirits reindeer mountains and Buddhist Masters of the Land are engaged by humans to navigate environmental change and address a range of ecological threats from large scale mining to climate change Cosmopolitical ecologies approaches encompass the healing power of topography as well as transformative intimacies with other than human beings such as sparrows within an Islamic eco theological poetic setting In this light the book observes dynamic and creative processes of cosmological innovation including the repurposing of ritual to address challenges such as the Covid 19 epidemic This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environment and society across disciplinary perspectives in general and to anthropologists human geographers political ecologists indigenous studies area studies environmental sciences and environmental humanities scholars in particular The Introduction to this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Climate Crisis and the Democratic Prospect
Frank Fischer, 2017-06-09 Can contemporary democratic governments tackle climate crisis Some argue that democracy has to be a central part of a strategy to deal with climate change Others argue that experience shows it not to be up to the challenge in the time frame available that it will require a stronger hand even a form of eco authoritarianism A question that does not lend itself to an easy assessment this volume seeks to out and assess the competing answers While the book supports the case for environmental democracy it argues that establishing and sustaining democratic practices will be difficult during the global climate turmoil ahead especially in the face of state of emergencies This inquiry undertakes a search for an appropriate political ecological strategy for preserving a measure of democratic governance during hard times Without ignoring the global dimensions of the crisis the analysis finds an alternative path in the theory and practices participatory environmental governance embodied in a growing relocalization movement and global eco localism generally Although such movements largely operate under the radar of the social sciences the media and the political realm generally these vibrant socio ecological movements not only speak to the crisis ahead but are already well established and thriving on the ground including ecovillages eco communes eco neighborhoods and local transition initiatives With the help of these ideas and projects the task is to influence the discourse of environmental political theory in ways that can be of assistance to those who will face climate crisis in its full magnitude

The Geography of Nostalgia Alastair Bonnett, 2015-08-11 We are familiar with the importance of progress and change But what about loss Across the world from Beijing to Birmingham people are talking about loss about the loss that occurs when populations try to make new lives in new lands as well as the loss of traditions languages and landscapes The Geography of Nostalgia is the first study of loss as a global and local phenomenon something that occurs on many different scales and which connects many different people The Geography of Nostalgia explores nostalgia as a child of modernity but also as a force that exceeds and challenges modernity The book begins at a global level addressing the place of nostalgia within both global capitalism and anti capitalism In Chapter Two it turns to the contested role of nostalgia in debates about environmentalism and social constructionism Chapter Three addresses ideas of Asia and India as nostalgic forms The book then turns to more particular and local landscapes the last three chapters explore the yearnings of migrants for distant homelands and the old cities and ancient forests that are threatened by modernity but which modern people see as sites of authenticity and escape The Geography of Nostalgia is a reader friendly text that will appeal to a variety of markets In the university sector it is a student friendly interdisciplinary text that will be welcomed across a broad range of courses including cultural geography post colonial studies landscape and planning sociology and history

Reconfiguring the Natures of Childhood Affrica Taylor,2013 In this fascinating new book Affrica Taylor encourages an exciting paradigmatic shift in the ways in which childhood and nature are conceived and pedagogically deployed and invites readers to critically reassess the naturalist childhood discourses that are rife within popular culture and early years education Through adopting a common worlds framework Reconfiguring the Natures of Childhood generates a number of complex and inclusive ways of seeing and representing the early years It recasts childhood as messy and implicated rather than pure and innocent situated and differentiated rather than decontextualized and universal entangled within real world relations rather than protected in a separate space Throughout the book the author follows an intelligent and innovative line of thought which challenges many pre existing ideas about childhood Drawing upon cross disciplinary perspectives and with international relevance this book makes an important contribution to the field of childhood studies and early childhood education and will be a valuable resource for scholars postgraduate students and higher education teachers

Transboundary Water Politics in the Developing World Naho Mirumachi,2015-03-05 This book examines the political economy that governs the management of international transboundary river basins in the developing world These shared rivers are the setting for irrigation hydropower and flood management projects as well as water transfer schemes Often these projects attempt to engineer the river basin with deep political socio economic and environmental implications The politics of transboundary river basin management sheds light on the challenges concerning sustainable development water allocation and utilization between sovereign states Advancing conceptual thinking beyond simplistic analyses of river basins in conflict or cooperation the author proposes a new analytical framework The Transboundary Waters Interaction NexuS TWINS examines the coexistence of conflict and cooperation in riparian interaction This framework highlights the importance of power relations between basin states that determine negotiation processes and institutions of water resources management The analysis illustrates the way river basin management is framed by powerful elite decision makers combined with geopolitical factors and geographical imaginations In addition the book explains how national development strategies and water resources demands have a significant role in shaping the intensities of conflict and cooperation at the international level The book draws on detailed case studies from the Ganges River basin in South Asia the Orange Senqu River basin in Southern Africa and the Mekong River basin in Southeast Asia providing key insights on equity and power asymmetry applicable to other basins in the developing world

The Political Ecology of Climate Change Adaptation Marcus Taylor,2014-11-17 This book provides the first systematic critique of the concept of climate change adaptation within the field of international development Drawing on a reworked political ecology framework it argues that climate is not something out there that we adapt to Instead it is part of the social and biophysical forces through which our lived environments are actively yet unevenly produced From this original foundation the book challenges us to rethink the concepts of climate change vulnerability resilience and adaptive capacity in transformed ways With case studies drawn from Pakistan India and Mongolia it demonstrates concretely how climatic change emerges as a dynamic force in the ongoing transformation of contested rural landscapes In crafting this synthesis the book recalibrates the frameworks we use to envisage climatic change in the context of contemporary debates over development livelihoods and poverty With its unique theoretical contribution and case study material this book will appeal to researchers and students in environmental studies sociology geography politics and development studies

Ecology and German Realism Alexander Robert Phillips,2025 Shows contrary to the traditional view that the major authors of German literary realism not only thematized environmental transformation but that it was central to their aesthetics In nineteenth century Europe and particularly in Germany the industrial revolution led to air and water pollution urban and industrial sprawl and the physical reconstitution of natural landscapes This book investigates the relationship between environmental degradation and German Realist aesthetics challenging a longstanding argument in the scholarship that German Realism largely occluded urban and industrial realities by demonstrating that its major authors Adalbert Stifter Wilhelm Raabe Theodor Storm and Theodor Fontane not only thematized environmental matters but that environmental transformation became the very condition for their texts reflections on the aesthetic representation of reality German Realist aesthetics in this sense are thus inseparable from environmental aesthetics Environmental aesthetics in turn are inseparable from environmental politics connected as they are to problems such as the loss of individual livelihoods displacement of communities and the legal and ethical standing of animals plants and landscapes By exploring how these problems appear in the fiction of the period Alexander Phillips s book situates the literature in a longer genealogy of environmentalism and ecological aesthetics beyond Germany That genealogy includes the early twentieth century Nature Fakers debate in the United States twentieth century nature writing and contemporary ecocritical theory

have long proved key to North Korea's revolutionary industrial and economic strategies. They have equally been important to Pyongyang's diplomatic and geopolitical efforts both during the Warsaw Pact period and in our contemporary era following the collapse of its supportive and collaborative partners. However, while environmental issues have been very important to North Korea, academic analysis and commentary addressing this field of governmental and institutional functionality has been almost entirely lacking. This book fills this analytical void. Taking a narrative view of developmental approach throughout the political and ideological history of North Korea, Winstanley Chester's first considers its impact on its landscapes and topographies in general throughout the era of the Kim dynasty. Second, in light of recent academic analysis suggesting North Korea as a space of Charismatic politics, the book focuses on the specificity of individual developmental sectors and projects such as those addressing forestry and hydrology, seeking to trace general trends into these more particular environmental fields.

Where the Waters Divide Michael Mascarenhas, 2012-07-13. This timely and important scholarship advances an empirical understanding of Canada's contemporary Indian problem. Where the Waters Divide is one of the few book monographs that analyze how contemporary neoliberal reforms in the manner of deregulation, austerity measures, common sense policies, privatization, etc. are woven through and shape contemporary racial inequality in Canadian society. Using recent controversies in drinking water contamination and solid waste and sewage pollution, Where the Waters Divide illustrates in concrete ways how cherished notions of liberalism and common sense reform, neoliberalism also constitute a particular form of racial oppression and white privilege. Where the Waters Divide brings together theories and concepts from four disciplines: sociology, geography, Aboriginal studies, and environmental studies, to build critical insights into the race-relational aspects of neoliberal reform. In particular, the book argues that neoliberalism represents a key moment in time for the racial formation in Canada, one that functions not through overt forms of state-sanctioned racism as in the past, but via the morality of the marketplace and the primacy of individual solutions to modern environmental and social problems. Furthermore, Mascarenhas argues because most Canadians are not aware of this pattern of laissez-faire racism and because racism continues to be associated with intentional and hostile acts, Canadians can dissociate themselves from this form of economic racism, all the while ignoring their investment in white privilege. Where the Waters Divide stands at a provocative crossroads. Disciplinarily, it is where the social construction of water, an emerging theme within Cultural Studies and Environmental Sociology, meets the social construction of expertise, one of the most contentious areas within the social sciences. It is also where the political economy of natural resources, an emerging theme in Development and Globalization Studies, meets the Politics of Race Relations, an often understudied area within Environmental Studies. Conceptually, the book stands where the racial formation associated with natural resources reform is made and re-made, and where the dominant form of white privilege is contrasted with anti-neoliberal social movements in Canada and across the globe.

Transnational Identity, Politics and the Environment Gabriel Ignatow, 2007-01-01. This study in global sociology argues that environmental activism today has taken on a hybrid transnational character in reaction to the retreat of the state and the political activism of transnational migrant communities The argument is illustrated with in depth case studies of contemporary environmental social movements in Turkey and Lithuania The Politics of Nature and Science in Southern Africa Maano Ramutsindela, Giorgio Miescher, 2016-08-12 This book brings together recent and ongoing empirical studies to examine two relational kinds of politics namely the politics of nature i e how nature conservation projects are sites on which power relations play out and the politics of the scientific study of nature These are discussed in their historical and present contexts and at specific sites on which particular human environment relations are forged or contested This spatio temporal juxtaposition is lacking in current research on political ecology while the politics of science appears marginal to critical scholarship on social nature Specifically the book examines power relations in nature related activities demonstrates conditions under which nature and science are politicised and also accounts for political interests and struggles over nature in its various forms The ecological socio political and economic dimensions of nature cannot be ignored when dealing with present day environmental issues Nature conservation regulations are concerned with the management of flora and fauna as much as with humans Various chapters in the book pay attention to the ways in which nature science and politics are interrelated and also co constitutive of each other They highlight that power relations are naturalised through science and science related institutions and projects such as museums botanical gardens wetlands parks and nature reserves

Capitalism in the Anthropocene John Bellamy Foster, 2022-08-23 Over the last 11 700 years during which human civilization developed the earth has existed within what geologists refer to as the Holocene Epoch Now science is telling us that the Holocene Epoch in the geological time scale ended replaced by the onset of a new more dangerous Anthropocene Epoch which began around 1950 The Anthropocene Epoch is characterized by an anthropogenic rift in the biological cycles of the Earth System marking a changed reality in which human activities are now the main geological force impacting the earth as a whole generating at the same time an existential crisis for the world s population What caused this massive shift in the history of the earth In this comprehensive study John Bellamy Foster tells us that a globalized system of capital accumulation has induced humanity to foul its own nest The result is a planetary emergency that threatens all present and future generations throwing into question the continuation of civilization and ultimately the very survival of humanity itself Only by addressing the social aspects of the current planetary emergency exploring the theoretical historical and practical dimensions of the capitalism s alteration of the planetary environment is it possible to develop the ecological and social resources for a new journey of hope Political Ecology of REDD+ in Indonesia Jonas I. Hein, 2018-11-21 Indonesia s commitment to reducing land based greenhouse gas emissions significantly includes the expansion of conservation areas but these developments are not free of conflicts This book provides a comprehensive analysis of agrarian conflicts in the context of the implementation of REDD Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation and forest carbon offsetting in Indonesia a country where deforestation is a major issue The author analyzes new kinds of transnational agrarian conflicts which have strong implications for global environmental justice in the REDD pilot province of Jambi on the island of Sumatra The chapters cover the rescaling of the governance of forests privatization of conservation and the transnational dimensions of agrarian conflicts and peasants resistance in the context of REDD The book builds on an innovative conceptual approach linking political ecology politics of scale and theories of power It fills an important knowledge and research gap by focusing on the socially differentiated impacts of REDD and new forest carbon offsetting initiatives in Southeast Asia providing a multi scalar perspective It is aimed at scholars in the areas of political ecology human geography climate change mitigation forest and natural resource management as well as environmental justice and agrarian studies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.tandfebooks.com/doi/view/10.4324/9781351066020> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Towards a Posthuman Theory of Educational Relationality Simon Ceder, 2018-08-06 Towards a Posthuman Theory of Educational Relationality critically reads the intersubjective theories on educational relations and uses a posthuman approach to ascribe agency relationally to humans and nonhumans alike The book introduces the concept of educational relationality and contains examples of nonhuman elements of technology and animals putting educational relationality and other concepts into context as part of the philosophical investigation Drawing on educational and posthuman theorists it answers questions raised in ongoing debates regarding the roles of students and teachers in education such as the foundations of educational relations and how these can be challenged The book explores educational relations within the field of philosophy of education After critically examining intersubjective approaches to theories of educational relations anthropocentrism and subject centrism are localized as two problematic aspects Post anthropocentrism and intra relationality are proposed as a theoretical framework before the book introduces and develops a posthuman theory of educational relations The analysis is executed through a diffractive reading of intersubjective theories resulting in five co concepts impermanence uniqueness as relationality proximity edu activity and intelligibility The analysis provided through educational examples demonstrates the potential of using the proposed theory in everyday practices Towards a Posthuman Theory of Educational Relationality will be of great interest to researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of philosophy of education early childhood education research methodology and curriculum studies

Ontological Politics in a Disposable World Luigi Pellizzoni, 2016-03-03 This book explores the intertwining of politics and ontology shedding light on the ways in which as our ability to investigate regulate appropriate enhance and destroy material reality have developed so new social scientific accounts of nature and our relationship with it have emerged together with new forms of power Engaging with cutting edge social theory and elaborating on the thought of Foucault Heidegger Adorno and Agamben the author demonstrates that the convergence of ontology with politics is not simply an intellectual endeavour of growing import but also a governmental practice which builds upon neoliberal programmes the renewed accumulation of capital and the development of technosciences in areas such as climate change geoengineering and biotechnology With shifts in our accounts of nature have come new means of mastering it giving rise to unprecedented forms of exploitation and destruction with related forms of social domination In the light of growing social inequalities environmental degradation and resource appropriation and commodification Ontological Politics in a Disposable World The New Mastery of Nature reveals the need for new critical frameworks and oppositional practices to challenge the rationality of government that lies behind these developments a rationality that thrives on indeterminacy and an account of materiality as comprised of fluid ever changing states simultaneously agential and pliable to which social theory increasingly subscribes without questioning enough its underpinnings and implications A theoretically sophisticated reassessment of the relationship between ontology and politics which draws the contours of a renewed humanism to allow for a more harmonious relationship with the world this book will appeal to scholars in social and political theory environmental sociology geography science and technology studies and contemporary European thought on the material world

Power in the 21st Century Enrico Fels, Jan-Frederik Kremer, Katharina Kronenberg, 2012-04-10 The study of power is the nucleus of political science and international relations As a shift of power from traditional industrial countries to emerging powers has been perceived since the turn of the century this book aims to present innovative theoretical and empirical approaches that can increase our understanding of this transition Scholars from the fields of international relations international political economy economics and security studies not only explore current theoretical debates on power and power shifts among entities but also provide fresh insights into relevant aspects of international power in the 21st century With a particular focus on aspects of international security trade and production new methods of identifying power and its sources are presented and their potential implications and challenges are discussed
