The National Ordnance Survey Atlas Of Great Britain:

Universal Cyclopaedia and Atlas Charles Kendall Adams, Rossiter Johnson, 1902 The Ordnance Survey National Atlas of Great Britain Great Britain. Ordnance Survey, 1986-01-01 Fodor's Great Britain 2006 Linda Cabasin, Christina Knight, 2005-09-28 Detailed and timely information on accommodations restaurants and local attractions highlight these updated travel guides which feature all new covers a two color interior design symbols to indicate budget options must see ratings multi day itineraries Smart Travel Tips helpful bulleted maps tips on transportation guidelines for shopping excursions and other valuable features Original Ordnance Survey Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Communities and Local Government Committee, 2008-02-02 The Ordnance Survey has existed for 216 years as a publicly funded and managed agency of government It became a Trading Fund then an Executive Agency in 1980s and 1990s and is now overseen by the Department for Communities and Local Government The Survey though ceased to be publicly funded in October 2006 and since that time is required to make a profit and so engage in commercial competition This in turn raises the question of whether such a dominant organisation can operate fairly in the information market A previous report HCP 481 session 2001 02 ISBN 9780215003812 concluded that there needed to be defined boundaries between public service and national interest work The Communities and Local Government Committee has set out 12 conclusions and recommendations including now that Ordnance Survey is self supporting both funding its public task and commercial work entirely from its own revenues the distinction between public duty and commercial interest is no longer clear the Committee believes that the Survey's annual report and accounts should distinguish between its public and private tasks that the Survey needs to co operate with the private sector in regard of licences that cover intellectual property rights particularly if the licence is too stringent in its requirements such as requiring competitors not to compete with the Survey greater clarity is needed on what use can be made of data bought from the Survey and that licensing conditions appear to be too complex and inflexible
