Creating Places of Power Nigel Pennick, 2022-11-29 An exploration of the traditional rites of auspicious building and crafting Explains the ceremonial beginnings and Hermetic principles in the laying out of foundations not only for sacred buildings like temples but also for homes and barns Examines the principles and ceremonies of electional astrology and details how to compute natural time as opposed to clock time Shares examples from ancient Egypt Iran India and Europe that range from the Stone Age to the Renaissance and include secret societies When we make things whether a building a sacred space or a magical object there is a precise moment when the artifact comes into being as a separate entity That moment in time possesses its own unique quality and because of this there is a right time to do something and a wrong time And as Nigel Pennick reveals we have the power to select favorable moments for our creations just as our ancestors did Illustrating ancient principles of divination chronomancy and electional astrology Pennick examines all the factors behind the ancestral art of geomancy the auspicious creation and alignment of sacred buildings as places of power Sharing examples from ancient Egypt Iran India and Europe that range from the Stone Age to the modern day including secret societies like the Rosicrucians and the Freemasons he explains how many cities were constructed on specially selected sites and founded ritually at precise predetermined moments Looking at the traditional rites of creating places of power Pennick explains the ceremonial beginnings and Hermetic principles in the laying out of foundations as well as the use of sacrifice in the building of many notable structures Examining the role of sacred geometry in geomancy Pennick explains the Hermetic meaning assigned to each direction in traditional European cultures as well as the principles of natural measures and the science of understanding lucky and unlucky days Revealing how geomantic principles are rooted in the structure of the world and the cosmic patterns of space and time the author shows how they transcend the ages and are just as meaningful today as they were to our ancestors Deus in Machina Jeremy Stolow, 2012-11-05 The essays in this volume explore how two domains of human experience and action religion and technology are implicated in each other Contrary to commonsense understandings of both religion as an otherworldly orientation and technology as the name for tools techniques and expert knowledges oriented to this world the contributors to this volume challenge the grounds on which this division has been erected in the first place What sorts of things come to light when one allows religion and technology to mingle freely In an effort to answer that question Deus in Machina embarks upon an interdisciplinary voyage across diverse traditions and contexts where religion and technology meet from the design of clocks in medieval Christian Europe to the healing power of prayer in premodern Buddhist Japan to 19th century Spiritualist devices for communicating with the dead to Islamic debates about kidney dialysis in contemporary Egypt to the work of disability activists using documentary film to reimagine Jewish kinship to the representation of Haitian Vodou on the Internet among other case studies Combining rich historical and ethnographic detail with extended theoretical reflection Deus in Machina outlines new directions for the study of religion and as technology that will resonate across the human sciences including religious studies science and technology studies communication studies history anthropology and philosophy
