Speech Act Theory and Pragmatics John Searle, F. Kiefer, M. Bierwisch, 2012-12-06 In the study of language as in any other systematic study there is no neutral terminology Every technical term is an expression of the assumptions and theoretical presuppositions of its users and in this introduction we want to clarify some of the issues that have surrounded the assumptions behind the use of the two terms speech acts and pragmatics The notion of a speech act is fairly well understood The theory of speech acts starts with the assumption that the minimal unit of human communication is not a sentence or other expression but rather the performance of certain kinds of acts such as making statements asking questions giving orders describing explaining apologizing thanking congratulating etc Characteristically a speaker performs one or more of these acts by uttering a sentence or sentences but the act itself is not to be confused with a sentence or other expression uttered in its performance Such types of acts as those exemplified above are called following Austin illocutionary acts and they are standardly contrasted in the literature with certain other types of acts such as perlocutionary acts and propositional acts Perlocutionary acts have to do with those effects which our utterances have on hearers which go beyond the hearer's understanding of the utterance Such acts as convincing persuading annoying amusing and frightening are all cases of perlocutionary acts

Language and Action Danilo Marcondes de Souza Filho, 1985-01-01 This work consists of an examination and revision of some of the main theses of Speech Act Theory in relation to the problem of ideology and action guiding language Starting from the idea that linguistic philosophy must take into account how the social structure of the linguistic community may influence and direct the way its language is used a critical method of analysis is proposed developing Speech Act Theory in a way suitable for this purpose The main guideline of this proposal is the consideration that a theory of action rather than a theory of meaning should be taken as central in the analysis of language The notion of illocutionary force the problem of intentions and conventions in the constitution of speech acts the definition of context and the classification of speech acts are then discussed Based on the conclusions of this discussion a pragmatic method for the analysis of language is formulated

Discourse in Old Norse Literature Eric Shane Bryan, 2021 The vast and diverse corpus of Old Norse literature preserves the language spoken not only by the Vikings kings and heroes of medieval Scandinavia but also by outlaws missionaries and farmers Scholars have long recognized that the wealth of verbal exchanges in Old Norse sagas presents the modern reader with the opportunity to speak face to face as it were with these great voices of the past However despite the importance of verbal exchanges in the sagas there has been no book length study of discourse in Old Norse literature since 1935 This book meets the need for such a study by offering a literary analysis based on the adjacent field of pragmatic linguistics which recognizes that speakers often rely upon cultural situational and interpersonal context to communicate their meaning The resulting context dependent meaning often deviates from the base semantic and syntactical components of an utterance speakers hedge imply deflect to save face or obscure meaning to damage an opponent's self worth Saga writers this book argues were masters of this type of indirectness in speech It aims therefore to unlock the depth and subtlety of discourse in Old Norse literature and to leave readers with an understanding of how principles of pragmatics were employed throughout the sagas A wide body of Old Norse materials is examined including some of the best examples of slendingas gur sagas of Icelanders such as Brennu Nj ls saga Laxdoela saga and G sla saga S rssonar while also giving due attention to Konungas gur kings sagas fornaldars gur legendary sagas and other literature from the medieval North ERIC SHANE BRYAN is Associate Professor of English at Missouri University of Science and Technology
