Abstract

This paper examines how conceptualizations of 'election' have changed in post-colonial Hong Kong. Drawing on Burgers' (2016) approach to model how metaphors change their focus on social topics over time, we study the uses of ELECTION metaphors in speeches by government leaders. These changes are classified as either fundamental changes (the use of metaphorical terms from a different domain) or incremental changes (changes in mapping principles within the same domain). We found a reliance on JOURNEY metaphors in framing ELECTION issues. Incremental changes within the ELECTION IS A JOURNEY metaphor highlight a change between the first (1997-2007) and second decades (2008-2017) after the handover from Britain to China. Our study shows that analysing changes in metaphorical frames in discourse is a practical approach to reflect the conceptualizations of social change.

The selection of a source domain highlights specific aspects of the target domain and simultaneously downplays other aspects (Lakoff and Johnson, 1980/2003, p. 10). This function makes metaphor an important linguistic device for framing in both communication and cognition (Burgers et al., 2016; Semino, Demjén, & Deramen, 2018). Since metaphor has the ability to reason about abstract concepts and has been used to frame various issues ranging from national politics in the US (Lakoff, 1996/2002; Cienki, 2004) and Europe (Chilton, 1996; Chilton and Ilyin, 1993; Musolff, 2017), to trade (Burgers and Ahrens, 2020), free economy (Zeng, Burgers, & Ahrens, 2021), and gender issues (Kollet, 2004a, b; Zeng, Toy, & Ahrens, 2020), analysing changes in metaphorical frames in discourse is a practical approach to reflect the conceptualizations of social change (Burgers, 2016).

This study focuses on the diachronic changes in ELECTION metaphors in order to conceptualize the social changes in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (HK) over a two-decade period. We elaborate on the metaphorical frames

Manyozo,2017-07-14 Development theory and practice are often taught in a manner that strips them of their historical context and obscures alternative intellectual assumptions and critical frameworks This prevents students from acquiring a holistic understanding of the world and consequently when it comes to development practice most lack the skills to live and engage with people It has become crucial to properly consider what it means to conceive and implement participatory development out in the field and not just in the boardroom Building on the work of Robert Chambers and Arturo Escobar Communicating Development with Communities is an empirically grounded critical reflection on how the development industry defines imagines and constructs development at the implementation level Unpacking the dominant syntax in the theory and practice of development the book advocates a move towards relational and indigenous models of living that celebrate local ontologies spirituality economies of solidarity and community ness It investigates how subaltern voices are produced and appropriated and how well meaning experts can easily become oppressors The book propounds a pedagogy of listening as a pathway that offers a space for interest groups to collaboratively curate meaningful development with and alongside communities This is a valuable resource for academics and practitioners in the fields of Development Studies Communication for Development Communication for Social Change Social Anthropology Economic Development and Public Policy Foreword by Robin Mansell Communication for Another Development Wendy Quarry,Ricardo Ramirez,2013-07-04 This lively book argues that in the development process communication is everything The authors world experts in this field as teachers practitioners and theorists argue that Communication for Development is a creative and innovative way of thinking that can permeate the overall approach to any development initiative They illustrate their argument with vivid case studies and tools for the reader drawing on the stories of individual project leaders who have championed development for communication and using a range of situations to show the different possibilities in various contexts Free from jargon and keeping a close look at how development is actually being implemented at ground level this book is an important contribution to development studies not just for students but also for development practitioners and policy makers Communication in International Development Florencia Enghel,Jessica Noske-Turner,2018-05-23 International development stakeholders harness communication with two broad purposes to do good via communication for development and media assistance and to communicate do gooding via public relations and information This book unpacks various ways in which different efforts to do good are combined with attempts to look good be it in the eyes of donor constituencies at large or among more specific audiences such as journalists or intra agency decision makers Development communication studies have tended to focus primarily on interventions aimed at doing good among recipients at the expense of examining the extent to which promotion and reputation management are elements of those practices This book establishes the importance of interrogating the tensions generated by overlapping uses of communication to do good and to look good within international development cooperation The book is a critical text for students and scholars in the areas of development communication and international development and will also appeal to practitioners working in international aid who are directly affected by the challenges of communicating for and about development

Anatomy of Development Bikram Pattanaik, 2025-03-20 This book details the fundamentals of development studies by adopting a multi disciplinary approach It presents a balanced mix of economic social political cultural and administrative premises of development and analyzes its theoretical and practical dimensions It also provides insight into the role of the stakeholders of development in different sectors The volume provides a holistic understanding of development effectively demonstrating how it differs from economic growth Beginning with development theories paradigms and actors involved in the development process this book goes on to explain the concepts of development administration development governance development planning development management and development communication One of the fundamental components of the book is the elucidation of Development Theories classical neoclassical developmental and heterodox theories essential to the discipline of development This book will be useful to undergraduate and postgraduate students researchers teachers of development studies economics sociology political science and public administration It will also be useful to administrators and development administration officials of state and central governments planners policymakers and people working in NGOs in addition to corporate sector functionaries dealing with corporate social responsibilities and those handling developmental issues and challenges

Moved by the State Tina Loo, 2019-06-01 Why don't they just move This reductive question is asked whenever reports surface of the all too common lack of social services and economic opportunities in Canada's rural and urban communities But why are certain people and places vulnerable And who is responsible for a remedy From the 1950s to the 1970s the Canadian government relocated people often against their will in order to improve their lives Moved by the State offers a completely new interpretation of this undertaking seeing it as part of a larger project of development and focusing on the bureaucrats and academics who designed implemented and monitored the relocations rather than on those who were uprooted In this finely crafted history Tina Loo explores the contradiction between intention and consequence as diverse communities across Canada were resettled In the process she reveals the optimistic belief underpinning postwar relocations the power of the interventionist state to do good

Good Data Angela Daly, Monique Mann, S. Kate Devitt, 2019-01-23 Moving away from the strong body of critique of pervasive bad data practices by both governments and private actors in the globalized digital economy this book aims to paint an alternative more optimistic but still pragmatic picture of the datafied future The authors examine and propose good data practices values and principles from an interdisciplinary international perspective From ideas of data sovereignty and justice to manifestos for change and calls for activism this collection opens a multifaceted conversation on the kinds of futures we want to see and presents concrete steps on how we can start realizing good data in practice

Media Controversy: Breakthroughs in Research and Practice Management Association, Information

Resources, 2019-09-06 Media is rapidly evolving From social media to news channels individuals are being bombarded with headlines new technologies and varying opinions Consequently it has become pivotal to develop new approaches for information processing understanding and redistributing Media Controversy Breakthroughs in Research and Practice examines the effect of conflicting opinions and views of news outlets and other mass media outlets on cultures individuals and groups It also examines the role of the internet mobile phones and other digital platforms in creating an environment for discussing and sharing the latest controversial news Highlighting a range of topics such as censorship media ethics and media transparency this publication is an ideal reference source for government officials leaders activists professionals policymakers media specialists academicians and researchers interested in the various facets of media controversy San Representation Keyan Tomaselli, Michael Wessels, 2017-12-22 The San or Bushmen of southern Africa have exerted a fascination over generations of writers and scholars from novelists and anarchists to ethnologists and geneticists and also occupy a special place in the popular imagination as the First People and the contemporary remnant of spiritual and natural man The ways in which particular groups of people from southern Africa have been traditionally categorised and positioned as objects of scrutiny by a range of academic disciplines is increasingly being contested and questioned There is a growing awareness of the cultural economic and genetic entanglement of the peoples of the region This book examines how San and Khoe people are represented by others as well as by those who identify as San or Khoe The book interrogates the ways in which disciplines through their methodologies and ways of authorising knowledge not only discover or reveal knowledge but produce it in ways that involve complex and often ambiguous relationships with power structures and forms of intellectual symbolic and cultural capital One major trend that emerges is that the San and Khoe can no longer be seen as people of the past but have to be acknowledged as contemporary and socially situated individuals and communities who are increasingly contesting the representations which others have imposed on them This book was originally published as a special issue of Critical Arts A Journal of South North Cultural and Media Studies
