Excerpt from Talks to Sunday School Teachers This book is in a sense a supplement to The Pupil and the Teacher as it is my response to the request that I write in fuller and more concrete detail concerning certain topics briefly referred to in that book. It has however a body of its own and is published in the hope that parents and Sunday school teachers may be helped by these talks to gain further insight into the psychology of boys and girls and a better understanding of some of the pedagogical problems involved in their religious education. That it may be the better available for use by teacher training or parents classes or as a basis for a series of Sunday school Workers conferences questions for discussion and a brief bibliography are appended to each chapter.
