The Costs of Sprawl: Literature review and bibliography Real Estate Research Corporation,1974      Literature review and bibliography Real Estate Research Corporation,1974      Timing the Future Metropolis Peter Ekman,2024-11-15

Timing the Future Metropolis an intellectual history of planning urbanism design and social science explores the network of postwar institutions formed amid specters of urban crisis and renewal that set out to envision the future of the American city Peter Ekman focuses on one decisive node in the network the Joint Center for Urban Studies founded in 1959 by scholars at Harvard and MIT Through its sprawling programs of organized research its manifold connections to universities foundations publishers and policymakers and its years of consultation on the planning of a new city in Venezuela Ciudad Guayana the Joint Center became preoccupied with the question of how to conceptualize the urban future as an object of knowledge Timing the Future Metropolis ultimately compels a broader reflection on temporality in urban planning rethinking how we might imagine cities yet to come and the consequences of deciding not to      The Costs of Sprawl Real Estate Research Corporation,1974      The Urban Climate Helmut E. Landsberg,1981-08-28 The Urban Climate aims to summarize analytical studies directed toward physical understanding of the rural urban differences in the atmospheric boundary layer Attempts to quantify conditions have met with some success There is certainly a clear understanding of the physical relations that create the climatic differences of urbanized areas Although some of the earlier classical studies are cited here the emphasis is on the work done during the last decade and a half This volume comprises 11 chapters beginning with an introductory chapter discussing the literature surrounding the topic its historical development and the problem of local climate modification The second chapter presents an assessment of the urban atmosphere on a synoptic and local scale and examines the observational procedures involved The following chapters then go on to discuss urban air composition urban energy fluxes the urban heat island the urban wind field models of urban temperature and wind fields moisture clouds and hydrometeors urban hydrology special aspects of urban climate and finally urban planning This book will be of interest to practitioners in the fields of meteorology urban planning and urban climatology      The New York Times Book Review ,1967-10

Sourcebook on the Environment Kenneth A. Hammond,George Macinko,Wilma B. Fairchild,1978-05 Literature survey providing a guide to selected aspects of the environment covers environmental protection ecology quality of life urban development environmental modifications relating to water quality nature conservation transport etc and includes a chronology of relevant laws a directory of organizations and bibliographys      Housing and Planning References ,1968

Planning Theory Robert Burchell,2017-09-04 Theory and practice in city planning have never been known for their compatibility The planner dealing with stresses such as the personalities at work in a board meeting and coping with the realities of fund raising political realities and the like can find little guidance in the theory of the trade The issues of poverty groups whether rural or urban the provision of services and the packaging of them are seemingly insuperable The sheer frustration in the inability to deliver which so many planners feel can result in considerable impatience and a questioning of the relevance of theory. The editors argue that this state of affairs though understandable is unacceptable. While short range meliorism without sense of perspective may be good for the practitioner's individual psyche the cost may be borne by the long run best interests of the groups to be served. The risks of a lack of perspective and the experiences generated by this phenomenon are too serious in their implications to permit the process to continue. In this new age of anxiety it is essential for both planners and theorists to understand their roles as well as provide guidance in shaping them. Burchell and Sternlieb have thus gathered here a variety of individuals all of whom in their separate and distinct fashions are seasoned both in practice and in theory. The book is divided into five sections: Physical Planning in Change, Social Planning in Change, Public Policy Planning in Change, Economic Planning in Change, and a final section detailing the roles of planners and who they are. These shared puzzlements and insights will prove useful to all practitioners and theorists in the planning field.

Building Cities that Work Edmund P. Fowler, 1993. Since 1945 North Americans have spent hundreds of billions of dollars on urban development literally transforming the landscape of the continent. This development has been disastrous. Edmund Fowler maintains because it is inordinately expensive, destructive of the environment and disruptive of healthy social life and authentic politics. Revealing the connections between our basic cultural beliefs and why we build the way we do, he stresses that to build cities that work we must become aware of how our personal choices contribute to the form of the built environment.

Human Aspects of Urban Form Amos Rapoport, 2016-06-03. Human Aspects of Urban Form: Towards a Man Environment Approach to Urban Form and Design discusses the man environment interaction in urban setting. The book is comprised of six chapters that provide a broad conceptual framework using a range of disciplines. The text first tackles urban design as the organization of space, time, meaning and communication. The second chapter talks about environmental quality while the third chapter deals with environmental cognition. Next the book tackles the importance and nature of environmental perception. Chapter 5 discusses the city in terms of social, cultural and territorial variables. Chapter 6 details the distinction between associational and perceptual worlds. The book will be of great interest to urban planners and government policymakers. Researchers and practitioners of sociological and behavioral science will also benefit from the book.

A Land Use Decision Methodology for Environmental Control Kirk Wickersham, Roger P. Hansen, Albert G. Melcher, 1975.

Science for Society John Alexander Moore, 1970.

Population Growth and Rapid Urbanization in the Developing World Benna, Umar G., Garba, Shaibu Bala, 2016-06-07. As the global population continues to boom particularly in the developing countries it has become necessary to find ways to handle this increase through various policy tools that address population growth and urbanization problems. The urbanization process has both potentials, issues as well as opportunities to move societies forward that need to be exploited. Population Growth and Rapid Urbanization in the Developing World examines trends, challenges, issues and strategies adopted by developing countries in the face of population growth and rapid urbanization and its impact on urban environments The book explores patterns of population growth and urbanization use of different governance approaches in addressing challenges as well as different tools and systems of appropriate allocation to address issues The book is a comprehensive reference for academicians students practitioners professionals managers urban planners and government officials The Costs of Sprawl Real Estate Research Corporation,1974 The Reader's Adviser ,1977 The Cybernetic Society Ralph Parkman,2013-09-24 The Cybernetic Society brings together facts and ideas which help give perspective to man's role in a cybernetic society Emphasizing the transforming power of technological innovation and the ties between technology and society the book explores the impact of industrialization on the working man systems design for social systems the relevance of cybernetics and machine translation and self reproducing machines The effects of technology on government education and science and the arts are also given consideration This volume consists of 10 chapters and begins with an introduction to the transforming power of technology before turning to the nature and significance of important technological innovations with some emphasis on the role of the computer and their connection to a variety of human concerns many of which are strongly rooted in the history of technology and science Emphasis is placed on energy and its transformation organization or synchronization and information Attention then shifts to the problems of industrial job displacement unemployment or underemployment and poverty from the time of the first Industrial Revolution to the present cybernated era Some of the economic and political solutions which have been proposed are highlighted The chapters that follow focus on how technology contributes to patterns of social change the potential of cybernetics to elucidate relationships between organic and inorganic systems and the uniqueness of the human mind versus intelligent machines The book concludes with a look at the futurists and their forecasting activities This book will be useful to students from all disciplines The Land Use Policy Debate in the United States Judith I. de Neufville,2012-12-06 Much of the preparation of this book has been generously supported by the Lincoln Institute of Land Policy Cambridge Massachusetts It evolved from a colloquium held in October 1977 under the sponsorship of the Lincoln Institute The three day symposium entitled Land Policy Making the Value Choices involved the preparation of major papers and formal discussions most of which appear here in considerably revised form along with additional pieces commissioned later The colloquium was an idea jointly conceived by myself and Edward Wood a colleague at the time in the Tufts University Program in Urban Social and Environmental Policy We were concerned about two major limitations in the literature and debates over land use On the one hand there was little explicit recognition of the latent values that motivated land use policy On the other there was no common forum where people from the different land use fields could discuss the issues and learn from one another A small group of about two dozen people was invited to the colloquium Each member was a leading spokesman for a different perspective and area of expertise All participated formally in some fashion All the papers were written expressly for the colloquium with the exception of Ann Strong's which was a keynote address to the American Society of Planning Officials earlier in the year None of the papers has been published elsewhere      Stevenage Ltd Robert Mullan, 2022-02-23 A study of particular aspects of the politics of planning a new town this book originally published in 1980 covers events from the inception of Stevenage in 1946 up to 1978 As a case study the focus is on two expansion schemes which were intended to extend the designated area of the town and on the public protest that the two schemes engendered Emphasis is placed on the structure and action of three groups of people the urban managers the Stevenage Development Corporation Stevenage industrialists and local organisations engaged in protest The theoretical focus is on the thesis of urban managerialism the book examines the constraints placed upon both the structure and action of the Stevenage urban managers over the previous thirty years In showing how matters work in practice it directs light on issues of theory which other sociologists of planning such as Pickvance and Castells had only discussed in the abstract The author argues that the experience of Stevenage illustrates a case of urban policy particularly in housing and employment being determined by the interests of industry alone while at the same time pointing to the interrelationship of Stevenage industry and the town s Development Corporation He examines the membership strategies and aims of the various protest groups involved over the years and casts considerable doubt on the notion that the groups were for democracy and against bureaucracy Finally he concludes controversially that in Stevenage s case public participation and protest were basically irrelevant to the decision making processes      Geography and Earth Sciences Publications, 1968-1972 ,1978
