Targets And Tools For The Maintenance Of Forest Biodiversity Ecological Bulletin 51:

Ecological Bulletins, Targets and Tools for the Maintenance of Forest Biodiversity Per Angelstam, Monica Donz-Breuss, Jean-Michel Roberge, 2009-05-06 Maintaining forest biodiversity by combining protection management and restoration of forest and woodland landscapes is a central component of sustainable development Evidence that there are threshold levels for how much habitat loss may be tolerated for viable populations of specialised species to be maintained Policy makers businesses and managers pose questions about how to balance use of renewable forest resources and conserve biodiversity Examples are presented on how biodiversity assessments can be made Proposes how the critical gaps in our knowledge identified throughout the book could be filled through macroecological research and international co operation

The Last Large Intact Forests in Northwest Russia Tor Kristian Spidsø, Ole Jakob Sørensen, 2009 The forests of Fennoscandia have been in human use for many purposes for centuries and through the last decades industrialized and cultivated in a manner that can change their ecological function with respect to biodiversity at species and ecosystem levels In Northwest Russia we can still find large indigenous forests where human impact is low They represent the last intact western taiga ecosystems of high value for biodiversity preservation in Russia and Fennoscandia as reservoirs and source habitats for future dispersal of taiga species The Conference and Workshop in Steinkjer 2007 focused on these matters but also the ecological importance of these forests for rural culture socio economic importance industrial values and how protection and sustainable societies could go hand in hand Many of the presentations given at the conference and workshop are here presented together with the Summary and Closing Statement worked out at the end of the sessions The presentations cover many aspects from ecology history and culture conservation and management strategies inventory tools for defining habitats of specific value to biodiversity as well as implementation of environmental issues into the forestry laws and certification and educational tools for developing sustainable societies in a broad scale The Conservation of Cultural Landscapes Mauro Agnoletti, 2006-10-23 Landscape today is no longer just a cultural aspect intended as an elitist phenomenon but emerges as an essential element in the definition and the application of a modern approach in sustainable development Historical locally adapted distinctive and ingenious combinations of management practices have contributed and continue to contribute tremendously to the biodiversity of the world resulting not only in outstanding aesthetic beauty but in the sustained provision of multiple goods and services food and livelihood security and quality of life The development of policies to preserve and manage landscape resources has to face both the degradation of cultural landscape due to socio economic development and the need to develop appropriate methods and approaches This book presents different methodologies developed to analyse manage and plan landscape resources It reports recent research findings and case studies from Europe and North America suggesting also the revision of some orientations and views of the current policies concerning forestry rural development and nature conservation often contributing to degrade cultural landscapes Forests in Landscapes Stewart Maginnis, Jeffrey Sayer, 2013 At last a really useful book telling us how all the rhetoric about ecosystem approaches and sustainable forest management is being translated into practical solutions on the ground CLAUDE MARTIN WWF INTERNATIONAL For too long foresters have seen forests as logs waiting to be turned into something useful This book demonstrates that forests in fact have multiple values and managing them as ecosystems will bring more benefits to a greater cross section of the public JEFFREY A MCNEELY CHIEF SCIENTIST IUCN This book demonstrates that ecosystem approaches and sustainable forest management are neither alternative methods of forest management nor are they simply complicated ways of saying the same thing They are both emerging concepts for more integrated and holistic ways of managing forests within larger landscapes in ways that optimize benefits to all stakeholders ACHIM STEINER AND IAN JOHNSON FROM THE FOREWORD Recent innovations in Sustainable Forest Management and Ecosystem Approaches are resulting in forests increasingly being managed as part of the broader social ecological systems in which they exist Forests in Landscapes reviews changes that have occurred in forest management in recent decades Case studies from Europe Canada the United States Russia Australia the Congo and Central America provide a wealth of international examples of innovative practices Cross cutting chapters examine the political ecology and economics of forest management and review the information needs and the use and misuse of criteria and indicators to achieve broad societal goals for forests A concluding chapter draws out the key lessons of changes in forest management in recent decades and sets out some thoughts for the future This book is a must read for practitioners researchers and policy makers concerned with forests and land use It contains lessons for all those concerned with forests as sources of people's livelihoods and as part of rural landscapes Published with IUCN and PROFOR Europe's Changing Woods and Forests Keith Kirby, Charles Watkins, 2015-06-30 Our understanding of the ecological history of European forests has been transformed in the last twenty years Bringing together key findings from across the continent this book provides a comprehensive account of the relevance of historical studies to current conservation and management of forests It combines theory with a series of regional case studies to show how different aspects of forestry play out according to the landscape and historical context of the local area Current State and Future Impacts of Climate Change on Biodiversity Rathoure, Ashok Kumar, Chauhan, Pawan Bharati, 2019-11-29 Understanding the balance of society and nature is imperative when researching ecosystems and their global influence A method of studying the health of these ecosystems is biodiversity The more diverse the species that live in an ecosystem the healthier it is As the climate continues to transform small scale ecosystems are affected altering their diversity Environmentalists need a book of research that studies the specific impacts of climate change and how it affects the future of the environment Current State and Future Impacts of Climate Change on Biodiversity is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on biological systems and how climate change influences their health While highlighting topics such as genetic diversity economic valuation and climatic conditions this publication explores the effects of climate change as well as the methods of sustainable management within ecosystems This book is ideally designed for environmental scientists environmental professionals scientists ecologists conservationists government officials policymakers agriculturalists environmentalists zoologists botanists entomologists urban planners researchers scholars and students seeking research on current and future developments of various ecosystems Farming, Forestry and the Natural Heritage Scottish Natural Heritage,2006-07-27 There have been significant changes to farming and forestry and new strategies for agriculture forestry and biodiversity have been launched The influence of farming and forestry on Scotland s landscapes is seen as increasingly important and new access rights have been put in place by the Land Reform Scotland Act 2003 Although these changes bring uncertainty and challenges they also bring a major opportunity to move decisively towards integrating landscape biodiversity and recreational objectives in land management This book takes stock of the changes taking places and considers a number of case studies which together suggest that progress is being made looks ahead at future research and advisory needs and highlights some key challenges to achieving better integration in the future Research Anthology on Ecosystem Conservation and Preserving Biodiversity Management Association, Information Resources,2022-04-08 In today s rapidly evolving world it has never been more critical to consider key environmental issues such as climate change pollution and endangered species Society faces an unknown future where the fate of the environment is continuously in flux based on current preservation initiatives that governments develop In order to ensure the world is protected moving forward further study on the importance of securing environments ecosystems and species is necessary to successfully implement change The Research Anthology on Ecosystem Conservation and Preserving Biodiversity considers the best practices and strategies for protecting our current ecosystems as well as the potential ramifications of failing to implement policies Society is at a crossroads where if we continue to ignore the danger and warning signs brought about by environmental issues we will be unable to maintain a healthy environment Covering essential topics such as extinction climate change and pollution this major reference work is ideal for scientists industry professionals researchers academicians policymakers scholars practitioners instructors and students Annales zoologici Fennici ,2006 Rural Development and Land Use Lars Rydén (biochemia),2012-10-28 Ecological Bulletins, Suserup Skov Katrine Hahn,Jens Emborg,2009-05-06 Suserup Skov in Denmark is a well preserved beech dominated forest reserve with continuity in tree cover at least back to 4200 BC indicating it to be a direct descendent of the primeval forests Despite of documented historical impact from humans Suserup Skov is now increasingly characterized by natural disturbance dynamics and is one of the best reference areas for naturalness in the nemoral part of northern Europe This has attracted several research projects focussing on forest dynamics ecology and biodiversity which are summarized in this issue of Ecological Bulletins This volume focuses on three main areas 1 stand structures and dynamics 2 water and nutrient cycling processes and 3 vegetation patterns and processes With a compilation of scientific reviews detailed case studies and experimental works the volume provides a unique and in depth
