The Social Origins of Democratic Collapse Kathleen Crowley Schwartzman, 1989 Schwartzman's study of the first Portuguese republic demonstrates the significant ways in which a nation's social and political structures are shaped by its position in the global economy

Capitalism in the Ottoman Balkans Costas Lapavistas, Pinar Cakiroglu, 2019-08-08 The Ottoman Empire went through rapid economic and social development in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries as it approached its end. Profound changes took place in its European territories particularly and prominently in Macedonia. In the decades before the First World War industrial capitalism began to emerge in Ottoman Macedonia and its impact was felt across society. The port city of Salonica was at the epicentre of this transformation led by its Jewish community. But the most remarkable site of development was found deep in provincial Macedonia where industrial capitalism sprang from domestic sources in spite of unfavourable conditions. Ottoman Greek traders and industrialists from the region of Mount Vermion helped shape the economic trajectory of Turkey in Europe and competed successfully against Jewish capitalists from Salonica. The story of Ottoman Macedonian capitalism was nearly forgotten in the century that followed the demise of the Empire. This book pieces it together by unearthing Ottoman archival materials combined with Greek sources and field research. It offers a fresh perspective on late Ottoman economic history and will be an invaluable resource for scholars of Ottoman Greek and Turkish history. Global Inequalities Beyond Occidentalism Manuela Boatcă, 2016-04-22 Based on theoretical developments in research on world systems analysis, transnational migration, postcolonial and decolonial perspectives whilst considering continuities of inequality patterns in the context of colonial and postcolonial realities, Global Inequalities Beyond Occidentalism proposes an original framework for the study of the long term reproduction of inequalities under global capitalism. With attention to the critical assessment of both Marxist and Weberian perspectives, this book examines the wider implications of transferring classical approaches to inequality to a twenty first century context, calling for a reconceptualisation of inequality that is both theoretically informed and methodologically consistent and able to cater for the implications of shifts from national and Western structures to global structures. Engaging with approaches to the study of class, gender, racial and ethnic inequalities at the global level, this innovative work adopts a relational perspective in the study of social inequalities that is able to reveal how historical interdependencies between world regions have translated as processes of inequality production and reproduction. As such it will be of interest to scholars of sociology, political and social

Bush, 2000-03 An Indispensable Book of The Black World Today website A fresh new look at the Black Power movement and its leaders Much has been written about the Black Power movement in the United States Most of this work however tends to focus on the personalities of the movement In We Are Not What We Seem Roderick D Bush takes a fresh look at Black Power and other African American social movements with a specific emphasis on the role of the urban poor in the struggle for Black rights Bush traces the trajectory of African American social movements from the time Booker T Washington to the present providing an integrated discussion of class He addresses questions crucial to any understanding of Black politics Is the Black Power movement simply another version of the traditional American ethnic politics or does it have wider social import What role has the federal government played in implicitly grooming social conservatives like Louis Farrakhan to assume leadership positions as opposed to leftist grassroots class oriented leaders Bush avoids the traditional liberal and social democratic approaches in favor of a more universalistic perspective that offers new insights into the history of Black movements in the U S Civilization and the Human Subject John Mandalios, 1999-09-08 Recent debates have highlighted the importance of the self to a better understanding of the nature of culture and its relation to power In his new book John Mandalios incorporates the current postmodern debate on these issues with a deeper philosophical exploration of identity and cultural formation and the dynamics of social power underlying them He takes up identity formation within an analysis of the historical social political religious and psychoanalytical dimensions of civilized life that can be traced back to the classical world Questions ordinarily associated with the postmodern condition _otherness fragmentation power the situated self disciplinary practices and multiplicity_ are related to the problematic of human subjectivity and how civilized modes of conduct of the self cannot simply be explained by national cultural traditions Mandalios argues that self identity is not reducible to the effects of globalization or power or any one single collective identity representation The self is enveloped within a complex which requires a civilization analytic perspective into the world and the inner life 21st Century Anthropology: A Reference Handbook H. Housing and Social Change in Europe and the USA Ball Michael,Michael Harloe,Maartje Martens,2013-10-28 First published in 1988 This book argues that there is a growing structural crisis in the provision of housing in advanced capitalist countries and that the steady improvement in housing conditions since 1945 is unlikely to continue The dilemmas facing housing policy makers can no longer be seen as concerned just with distributional questions but with problems generated by the restructuring of key elements of housing provision including private housing finance and the housebuilding industry It looks at housing markets housing policies and specific institutions connected with housing provision in many advanced capitalist countries including Britain the USA France West Germany the Netherlands and Denmark It considers the different sectors and the changes taking place there using case study material where appropriate to support its varied and convincing arguments

Mega-events and social change Maurice Roche,2017-06-05 The spectacle of major cultural and sporting events can preoccupy modern societies This book is concerned with contemporary mega events like the Olympics and Expos Using a sociological perspective Roche argues that mega events reflect the major social changes which now influence our societies particularly in the West and that these amount to a new second phase of the modernization process Changes are particularly visible in the media urban and global locational aspects of mega events Thus he suggests that contemporary mega events both in their achievements and their vulnerabilities reflect in the media sphere the rise of the internet in the urban sphere de industrialisation and the growing ecological crisis and in the global sphere the relative decline of the West and the rise of China and other emerging countries
