Industrialization As an Agent of Social Change Herbert Blumer,1990 Herbert Blumer wrote continuously and voluminously and consequently left a vast array of unpublished work at the time of his death in 1987 This posthumously published volume testifies further to his perceptive analysis of large scale social organizations and elegant application of symbolic interactionist principles Blumer s focus on the processual nature of social life and on the significance of the communicative interpretation of social contexts is manifest in his theory of industrialization and social change His theory entails three major points industrialization must be seen in processual terms and the industrialization process is different for different historical periods the consequences of industrialization are a function of the interpretive nature of human action and resembles a neutral framework within which groups interpret the meaning of industrial relations and the industrial sector must be viewed in terms of power relations industrial societies contain inherently conflicting interests The editors introductory essay outlines Blumer s metatheoretical stance symbolic interactionism and its emphasis on the adjustive character of social life It places Blumer s theory in the context of contemporary macro theory including world systems theory resource dependence theory and modernization theory Herbert Blumer 1900 1987 formerly Chairperson Department of Sociology at the University of California Berkeley was the theoretical and methodological leader of symbolic interactionism and was identified as its foremost proponent for a half century His publications include works on industrial relations research methods mass society collective behavior race relations and social movements David R Maines is chairman of the department of anthropology and sociology at Oakland University He has worked to articulate an interactionist approach to the study of social organization as well as the fundamental relevance of temporality and communication for sociological analysis Thomas J Morrione is Charles A Dana Professor of Sociology at Colby College and he is currently Chair of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the college He was a Research Associate 1977 1985 and Visiting Professor 1984 at the University of California Berkeley *Social Change in the Industrial Revolution. together and that this ideal family broke down under the impact of urbanization and industrialization. The essays in this volume challenge this myth and provide dramatic revisions of simplistic notions about change in the American family. Based on detailed research in a variety of sources including extensive oral history interviews of ordinary people, these essays examine major changes in family life, dispel myths about the past, and offer new directions in research and interpretation. The essays cover a wide spectrum of issues and topics ranging from the organization of the family and household to the networks available to children as they grow up, to the role of the family in the process of industrialization, to the division of labor in the family along gender lines, and to the relations between the generations in the later years of life. While discussing family relations in the past and revising prevailing notions of social change, these interdisciplinary essays also provide important perspectives on the present.

The Industrial Revolution and Economic Growth R. M. Hartwell, 2017-06-26. This volume first published in 1971 brings together eleven essays and articles on the history of the industrial revolution. Method is the central consideration, and the author discusses ways in which historians have analysed the industrial revolution, demonstrates inconsistency and bias in their interpretations, and suggests an appropriate framework of economic theory for future studies. This title will be of interest to students of history and economics.

Social Change Eva Etzioni-Halevy, 2024-10-31. First published in 1981, Social Change offers a critical review of the main classical and modern theories of social change and a study of the processes of change in western societies since modernization. It focusses on the cardinal aspects of society and those that have figured most prominently in various theories: the economy, the class structure, the political structure, and the structure of education as they changed throughout the process of modernization and up to the 1980s. The book is divided into three parts. Part I presents a general discussion of classical and contemporary theories of the advent and maturation of modern society in Western capitalist and non-Western countries. Part II provides a more detailed discussion of modernization and subsequent changes in the Western capitalist societies. Part III examines alternative social formations: communes and co-operatives. This book will be a beneficial read for students and researchers of sociology.
