The Myth of the Saving Power of Education Hannah Adams Ingram,2021-05-20 In the United States young people are bombarded with messages that they must go to college in order to secure their place in the middle class Those who are most disadvantaged in society are the most frequent recipients of this rhetoric because people believe that education is the one ticket that can save them from poverty Like the belief that there is only one avenue for salvation from hell to heaven the notion of salvific education presents a single answer to the problem of inequality if you want to be saved from poverty and oppression you must go to college In this book Hannah Adams Ingram interrogates the presumed promise of education and argues that the myth itself perpetuates rather than alleviates social inequality The Myth of the Saving Power of Education asks educators to reclaim the liberative potential of education and asks Christians to repent of judging individual worth based on the same merits as the secular market system

Theorizing Social Class and Education Diane Reay,Carol Vincent,2016-04-08 Theorizing Social Class and

Education presents a selection of writing on class analysis within sociology of education as it has evolved over the last decade both in the UK and internationally Moving from a narrow focus on class position and categorisation to a much broader view on behaviours attitudes identities and practices the contributors explore and theorize the ways in which particular individuals develop their perspectives and understandings of the social world and the role education plays in shaping these This book was originally published as a special issue of the British Journal of Sociology of Education The Elusive What and the Problematic How, 2008-01-01 For the authors in this book there can be no valid excuses for ignorance in any aspect of education as theory practice That is If we come to learn that all educational problems involve knowledge of complex systems and processes then quick simple solutions should not be an educator s first or only expedient option If all education requires a measure of cultural and contextual understandings then uniform standardized programs and lessons will not meet the needs of all children or communities If educational change takes time and strenuous efforts to take hold then why do we abandon and restart reforms efforts year after year If educational practices are best performed by those closest to the problems then why do we not prepare and continuously develop teachers and administrators to grow intellectually and politically to make wise decisions If who a person is culturally and intellectually shapes who they are as educators then why are our recruitment selection induction and retention policies not influenced by this assumption If today s best practices have not taken careful note of successes in the past then how do we validly measure best practices in use today If one time standardized test scores are not adequate measures of a person s worth a teacher s competency or a school s value to its community then why do our policies and practices say otherwise Unfortunately our ignorance of the what and the how of education and educational leadership has persisted across contexts and history Why This book provides both theoretical and practical answers to these elusive and problematic issues Underachievement in Schools Anne West, Hazel Pennell, 2003 An analysis of how recent research and theory about underachievement and disadvantage in schools can be applied in practice An Introduction to the Study of Education David Matheson, 2014-01-14 What is education This core textbook will help students in pursuit of this question by providing a comprehensive gentle and reflective introduction to the initial study of education Updated in line with the latest policies reforms and issues within education this third edition includes full exploration of the historical sociological philosophical and psychological roots of education a focus on all levels of education pre school primary secondary post 16 and lifelong learning the latest controversies and debates within education new material on compulsory education special educational needs and post 16 developments clear insights into the role and background of research within education Professional Standards for Educational Leaders Joseph F. The Life and Death of Secondary Education for All Richard Pring, 2013-05-07 Is there life after death for secondary education This book focuses upon the quality of learning Reform so called too often begins with qualifications examinations institutional provision paths of progression All those are very important but their value lies in the support they give to learners and their learning in its different forms One needs to start with the aims of education and then with what it means to learn practically theoretically morally and with the very many different needs of the learners That is what this book aims to do In so doing it will be both philosophical in analysis and empirical in example So much is happening from down below that goes unrecognised by policy makers But innovations too often get hampered by government interventions by a bureaucratic mentality and by failure to spread good practice The general argument of the book therefore will be illustrated throughout with detailed references to practical developments in schools colleges the third sector youth work independent training providers and professional bodies across several countries The book builds on Education for All which was based on 14 19 research into secondary education this book transcends the particularities of England and Wales and digs more deeply into those issues which are at the heart of educational controversy policy and practices and which survive the transience of political change and controversy The issues the aims of education standards of performance the consequent vision of learning the role of teachers progression from school to higher or further education and into employment the provision of such education and training and the control of education are by no means confined to the UK or to this day and age Pring identifies similar problems in other countries such as the USA Germany and France and indeed in the Greece of Plato and Aristotle and offers solutions with a comparative perspective It is a critical time Old patterns of education and its provision are less and less suitable for facing the twenty first century The patterns and modes of communication have changed radically in a few years and those changes are quickening in pace The economic context has been transformed affecting the skills and knowledge needed for employment The social world of young people raises fresh demands hopes and fears A global recession has affected young people disproportionately making quality of life and self fulfilment ever more difficult to attain In addressing learning and the learners first and foremost the book will argue for a wider vision of learning and a more varied pattern of provision Old structures must give way to new
