The Mind of Africa W.E. Abraham,2015-06-12 William Abraham studied Philosophy at the University of Ghana and even more Philosophy at Oxford University Thereafter he gained permission to take part in the competitive examination and interview for a fellowship at All Souls College The examination was once described with some exaggeration as the hardest exam in the world It included a three hour essay Following his success in becoming the first African fellow of All Souls his interest in African politics quickly developed into a Pan African perspective The Mind of Africa written while he was still at All Souls was a fruit of that enlarged perspective After several years as a Fellow he had occasion to visit Ghana in 1962 There Kwame Nkrumah then President of Ghana successfully persuaded him to return to Ghana to teach at the University of Ghana Legon and he subsequently resigned from All Souls In 1968 he went to the United States as a visiting professor This was followed by invitations to teach at various academic institutions there including Berkeley and Stanford He subsequently settled in California where he continued to teach and research philosophy in the University of California at Santa Cruz until his retirement The Mind of Africa appeared at a time when a number of African countries were obtaining or fighting for their political freedom from their colonial rulers and becoming independent nations and expecting to build new societies in accordance with their own visions and conceptions though not necessarily jettisoning all the features of their colonial heritage Building new societies requires appropriate ideologies and philosophies fashioned within the crucible of their cultural and historical experiences Thus the relation between ideology and society is taken up at the very outset of the book The Mind of Africa is important for Africa's future and identity

Microhistories of Technology Mikael Hård, 2023-02-20 In this open access book Mikael Hård tells a story of how people around the world challenged the production techniques and products brought by globalization Retaining their autonomy and freedom creative individuals selectively adopted or rejected modern gadgets tools and machines In standard historical narratives globalization is portrayed as an unstoppable force that flattens all obstacles in its path Modern technology is also seen as inexorable in the nineteenth century steamships telegraph lines and Gatling guns are said to have paved the way for colonialism and other forms of dominating people and societies Later shipping containers and computer networks purportedly pulled the planet deeper into a maelstrom of capitalism Hård discusses instances that push back against these narratives For example in Soviet times inhabitants of Samarkand Uzbekistan preferred to remain in and expand their own mud brick houses rather than move into prefabricated concrete residential buildings Similarly nineteenth century Sumatran carpenters ignored the saws brought to them by missionaries and chose to chop down trees with their arch bladed adzes And people in colonial India successfully competed with capitalist run Caribbean sugar plantations continuing to produce their own muscovado and sell it to local consumers This book invites readers to view the history of technology and material culture through the lens of diversity Based on research funded by the European Research Council and conducted in the Global South Microhistories of Technology Making the World shows that the spread of modern technologies did not erase artisanal production methods and traditional tools

Ancient Text Messages of the Yoruba Bata Drum Amanda Villepastour, 2016-12-05 The bata is one of the most important and representative percussion traditions of the people in southwest Nigeria and is now learnt and performed around the world In Cuba their own bata tradition derives from the Yoruba bata from Africa yet has had far more research attention than its African predecessor Although the bata is one of the oldest known Yoruba drumming traditions the drum and its unique language are now unfamiliar to many contemporary Yoruba people Amanda Villepastour provides the first academic study of the bata's communication technology and the elaborate coded spoken language of bata drummers which they refer to as ena bata Villepastour explains how the bata drummers speech encoding method links into universal linguistic properties unknown to the musicians themselves The analysis draws the direct links between what is spoken in Yoruba how Yoruba is transformed into the coded language ena how ena prescribes the drum strokes and finally how listeners and which listeners extract linguistic meaning from what is drummed The description and analysis of this unique musical system adds substantially to what is known about bata drumming specifically Yoruba drumming generally speech surrogacy in music and coded systems of speaking This book will appeal not only to ethnomusicologists and anthropologists but also to linguists drummers and those interested in African Studies
