Communities of Practice and English as a Lingua Franca Karolina Kalocsai, 2013-12-18 This is a timely book on one of the most widely debated issues in applied linguistics what is the social and cultural significance of English as a lingua franca for the internationally mobile students of the 21st century in Central Europe Through an in depth analysis of social practices the book develops an exciting innovative multilingual approach to out of class language use and language learning that engages students in the co construction of identities Apart from scholars the book will appeal to policy makers and educators who are concerned with the internationalization of universities in Central Europe Telecinematic Stylistics Christian Hoffmann, Monika Kirner-Ludwig, 2020-05-14 Over the last two decades the study of discourse in film and television has become one of the most promising research avenues in stylistics and pragmatics due to the dazzling variety of source material and the huge pragmatic range within it Meanwhile with the advent of streaming and the box set film and television themselves are becoming separated by an increasingly blurred line This volume closes a long standing gap in stylistics research bringing together a book level pragmatylistic showcase It presents current developments from the field from two complementary perspectives looking stylistically at the discourse in film and the discourse of and around film This latter phrase comes to mean the approaches which try to account for the pragmatic effects induced by cinematography This might be the camera work or the lighting or the mise en scene or montage The volume takes a multimodal approach looking at word movement and gesture in keeping with modern stylistics The volume shows how pragmatic themes and methods are adapted and applied to films including speech acts im politeness implicature and context In this way it provides systematic insights into how meanings are displayed enhanced suppressed and negotiated in both film and televisual arts Analyzing Race Talk Harry van den Berg, Margaret Wetherell, Hanneke Houtkoop-Steenstra, 2003 The interview is one of the most important sources of social scientific data yet there has been relatively little exploration of the way interviews are conducted and interpreted By asking internationally respected scholars from a range of traditions in discourse studies including conversation analysis discursive psychology and sociolinguistics to respond to the same material this exciting new book sheds light on some key differences in methodology and theoretical perspective Key topics are addressed such as the forms of knowledge produced in interviews the interview as social interaction and the foundations for the study of talk and texts in qualitative research The use of interviews exploring attitudes to race further broadens the scope of the book enabling the contributors to explore sensitive issues around the construction and interpretation of interviews on controversial topics and specifically on issues for race and ethnicity Bilingualism as Interactional Practices Joseph Gafaranga, 2016-11-21 Foregrounds the practical usefulness of bilingualism with specific reference to talk organisation Research on bilingualism and on code switching in particular has traditionally been geared towards rehabilitating bilingualism and bilingual language use From being seen as a sign of lack of competence code switching is now seen as a sign of high competence in the languages involved However this rehabilitation of bilingualism raises an entirely new problem Where to from here How can the study of bilingualism continue to be interesting and relevant In order to overcome the challenges the discipline faces as a result of its own success here Joseph Gafaranga argues the notion of bilingualism itself must be redefined Bilingualism must be seen as consisting of diverse interactional practices and investigated as such This book details the rehabilitation effort which has been undertaken to get us where we are today proposes a methodology which can be used in moving forward and illustrates it with three case studies all the while inviting other researchers to contribute to this new research direction Key Features Demonstrates empirically how bilingualism can be thought of as a resource drawing on data from a variety of sociolinguistic contexts Examines specific aspects of conversational organisation such as turn taking sequence organisation repair organisation where language choice is used as a resource Investigates the role of language choice in bilingual conversation against the backdrop of clearly set out theoretical backgrounds Muslim Perspectives on Islamophobia Zouhir Gabsi, 2024-08-06 The Islamic positioning of Islamophobia is presented in this book Through Islamic or Muslim perspectives the book engages with various Islamic texts and discourses spoken and written emanating from preachers and scholars of Islam to discuss the points of convergence and divergence with the Western interpretation of the phenomenon The book aims to look at Islamophobia from a hitherto unexplored angle by first analyzing the points of convergence and divergence between the internal Muslim and external Western perspectives and then by providing new approaches to curbing Islamophobia through a holistic spiritual dimension of Islam and cultural memory The book contends that the bridges of understanding between the East and the West can only be built if some of Islam's theological concepts such as the place of reason in Islam are reinterpreted by considering the Islamic perspectives While the book acknowledges previous work on Islamophobia it contributes to a deeper understanding of Islamophobia in its internal and external manifestations by considering the theoretical frameworks of racism and xenophobia Readers interested in Islamic studies and anti racism narratives would find this book's eclectic approach and balanced perspective of the phenomenon informative and enlightening Conversational Dominance and Gender Hiroko Itakura, 2001 Annotation In this study Itakura The Hong Kong Polytechnic U analyzes gender dominance in conversations among Japanese speakers in both their native tongue L1 and in English L2 The interactions studied include institutional talk as well as everyday conversation The author's approach draws upon Conversation Analysis the Birmingham school of discourse analysis and dialogical analysis to examine whether patterns of gender dominance in Japanese L2 conversation are similar to those found in L1 conversation Annotation c Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com In Conversation with Jonah Raymond F. Person, Jr., 1996-06-01 The author analyses the various conversations that occur between the characters in the Jonah narrative and the conversation that occurs between the text and its readers The study opens with an introduction to the field of conversation analysis with a focus on one feature of conversation analysis that a fundamental structure in the organization of language is adjacency pairs for example question answer and invitation refusal Person notes how complex the adjacency pairs in the Jonah narrative are and shows how they contribute to the narrative elements of plot characterization atmosphere and tone He then refines reader response theory especially that of Wolfgang Iser and provides a reader response commentary on the book The study ends with an analysis of the history of the interpretation of the book of Jonah demonstrating how the structures of adjacency pairs in the narrative have been successfully and unsuccessfully interpreted Discursive Constructions of Corporate Identities by Chinese Banks on Sina Weibo Wei Feng, 2017-06-09 This book addresses the discursive construction of corporate identities in social media on the part of Chinese corporations particularly highlighting how followers of corporate social media co create corporate identities during firm follower interactions Toward this end it pursues an integrated sociolinguistics approach combining e g thematic analysis interactional analysis and in depth interviews Readers will also find extensive information on the brand new dialogic framework of corporate identity formation The book offers an insightful and revealing guide for both practitioners trainers and teachers in corporate communication who are faced with the challenges of managing public relations and corporate images in the age of social media It can also serve as a valuable case study for those readers who are fascinated by the Chinese economy and discourse analysis of the Chinese language
