Tamara Walks On Water:

Tamara Walks on Water Shifra Horn, 2004 A beautifully written sensual and evocative book in the tradition of Amy Tan and Isabelle Allende rich in magic realism and folklore To understand the end you have to look for the beginning As a little girl in Jaffa Israel Tamara has an insatiable desire for stories constantly asking questions of those around her and demanding explanations However no one ever seems to give Tamara the whole story so instead she must piece together the various narratives herself in what will become a lifelong attempt to unravel the hidden secrets of her tangled family history and so bring some meaning to her own life Raised by her fiercely independent maternal grandmother Simcha who jealously guards her from others in particular her paternal grandmother Rashella Tamara's love of stories develops into a voracious appetite for life itself An impulsive passionate seeker of knowledge in all its forms nothing prepares her for the thrilling intensity and the danger of falling deeply madly in love for the first time Post-war Jewish Women's Writing in French Lucille

Cairns, 2017-12-02 How have French Jewish women reacted to the great traumas of the last century the Holocaust North African decolonization and the resulting migration of African Jews to France the Arab Israeli crisis and the aftermath of 9 11 Cairns's major new volume identifies the themes of books by French Jewish women from 1945 to the present day gauging to what extent they are dominated by informed by or relatively indifferent to these threatening events Thirty authors in particular serve as representatives of a great and greatly diverse pool divided not only as Ashkenazim or Sephardim but by origins scattered across Algeria Egypt Germany Hungary Morocco Poland Romania Russia Tunisia and Turkey Theirs is a transnational doubly diasporic and thus particularly complex paradigm in which feminism loyalty to family culture and to the traditions of Judaism often exists in tension with French Republican models of assimilation non differentiation and gender blindness Lucille Cairns is Professor of French Literature at the University of Durham Tamara's Love (The Ben and Katie Series 8)
