Trade Liberalisation and Poverty Minh Son Le, Tarlok Singh, Duc-Tho Nguyen, 2015-08-11 This book uses Alan Winters analytical framework to investigate the effects of trade liberalisation on economic growth and poverty in Vietnam The country launched a programme of economic and trade reforms known as Doi Moi in the mid 1980s which placed the economy on a transitional path from central planning to a market economy Since then Vietnam has attained a number of remarkable achievements in terms of economic growth and poverty reduction Although some formidable problems such as inequality and inflation remain it is apparent that trade liberalisation has been associated with a big reduction in poverty The analysis in the book focuses on the microeconomic household level and there is an emphasis on tracing the effects of trade liberalisation through the four separate channels identified by Winters Such in depth and micro level analyses yield new insights that support important policy lessons and recommendations for Vietnam in particular and more generally for similar developing countries      Trade Liberalisation, Economic Growth and Environmental Externalities Hansa Jain, 2016-12-20 The book examines the trade liberalization measures which were initiated in India during 1991 and which focused on manufacturing industries. This industry was considered because of its strong inter sectoral links and its capacity to stimulate the growth of other sectors. The resulting liberal trade policies involving a reduction in trade barriers and inflows of FDI capital and technologies were adopted to increase the manufacturing output. However, these measures were most beneficial to those industries whose products have greater demand in developed countries. Against this backdrop, the book breaks down the overall effect of trade-induced manufacturing growth into scale, composition, and technique effects to discuss the impact on environmental externality. In addition to manufacturing activity, it also investigates the effect of other factors that improve with economic growth and examines the extent to which India's trade-led economic growth allows production activities to move to cleaner technologies and whether India has achieved its economic growth by specializing in pollution-intensive, low-technology industries. The book also estimates the impact of these environmental externalities on society's wellbeing.

The Economic Effects of Air Transport Market Liberalisation Eyden Samunderu, 2024-09-19. This book rigorously examines the air transport market liberalisation process on the African continent and presents key highlights, challenges, and impediments to embracing an open skies market environment in Africa. It focuses on the economic impact of air transport liberalisation, policy constraints, challenges of harmonisation, and regional economic integration, and its impact on air transport development, employing a quantitative assessment based on the Air Transport Liberalisation Index (ALI) to evaluate how an open skies policy would change the competitive dynamics of air transport in Africa. Adopting a two-tier gravity model, the book explores how demand and route networks would be impacted by the deregulation of the air transport market. The book also applies a historical perspective by evaluating the initial ratification of the Yamoussoukro Declaration 1999, which acted as a catalyst for Africa's 2063 regional agenda focused on establishing the Single African Air Transport Market (SAATM). The book also provides a comprehensive analysis of the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA), exploring its multifaceted impacts on Africa's single market from economic, regulatory, and sustainability perspectives. This includes an introduction to the AfCFTA, highlighting its inception as a major step towards continental economic integration aimed at enhancing intra-African trade, promoting sustainable development, and fostering industrial diversification. It then examines the capacity and competency building of African aviation personnel. Training gaps and skills are extensively evaluated to ensure that the African region is prepared for the new competitive equilibrium post-SAATM. The book also raises critical questions regarding the status of the African air transport market. Firstly, with the introduction of an open skies policy in Africa, will the national flag carriers be able to compete under the new market dynamics? Will the SAATM become a game changer in paving the way for the privatisation of some of Africa's poor-performing airlines? Will the SAATM create a competitive market and a shift in airfares? How will policymakers deal with the excessive aviation taxes, fees, and charges that make airfares in Africa the highest in the world? What will the economic benefits be for signatory states that embrace the

SAATM Will there be a significant growth trajectory in terms of air travel demand This book is intended for researchers studying air transport economics in developing markets graduate students with a primary focus on air transport development senior policymakers and professionals at governmental agencies and industry practitioners who want to expand their understanding of the dynamics shaping Africa's air transport landscape

Towards Free Trade in Agriculture Kirit S. Parikh, Günther Fischer, Klaus Froberg, Odd Gulbrandsen, 2013-06-29 Agriculture seems to be a difficult sector to manage for most governments Developing countries face tough dilemmas in deciding on appropriate price policies to stimulate food production and maintain stable preferably low prices for poor consumers Governments in developed countries face similar difficult decisions They are called upon to give income guarantees to farmers whose incomes are unstable and relatively low when compared to those in the nonagricultural sector These guarantees often lead to ever increasing budgetary outlays and unwanted agricultural surpluses High prices make new investments and the application of new technologies more attractive than world prices warrant and a process is set in motion where technological innovation attains amomenturn of its own in turn requiring price policies that maintain their rates of return Surpluses are disposed of with subsidies in domestic markets or in the international market Price competition reduces the market share of other exporters who may be efficient producers unless they are willing to engage in subsidy competition This lowers export earnings and farm incomes or depletes the public resources of developing countries that export competing products Retaliatory measures have led to frictions and further distortions of world prices Every so orten the major agricultural exporters the USA the EC Aus tralia or Canada accuse one another of unfair intervention Though they have agreed to discuss agricultural trade liberalization under GATT negotiations if anything the expenditure on farm support has continued to increase in both the EC and the USA
