The International Essays For Business Decision Makers Vol6:

Issues and Agents in International Political Economy Benjamin J. Cohen, Charles Lipson, 1999 This is the second of two anthologies on international political economy drawn from articles published in the journal International Organization The book is organized into four sections Trade Multinational Firms and Globalization Money and Finance and Emerging Issues

Essays on the Economic Role of Government Warren J. Samuels, 1992-06-18 Contains a collection of articles applying fundamental concepts of power property regulation and the compensation principle to contemporary topics the wealth maximization hypothesis the Coase theorem public utility regulation and other topics in law and economics Multinational Risk Assessment and Management Wenlee Ting, 1988-03-11 An inclusive treatment of political risk assessment aimed at a readership consisting of students of international business and executives of multinational firms concerned with this issue Ting examines the sociopolitical foundations of the issue approaches to political risk assessment found in the literature micro risk assessment associated with individual projects forms of business macro policy and exchange rates The author also considers host country investments applications of risk rating systems and integration of political risk assessment into a risk return calculus Extremely clear the book is more usable than earlier volumes Choice Ting argues that a preoccupation with catastrophic and revolutionary changes such as those that occurred in Iran and Nicaragua has skewed models of risk analysis away from the most significant and likely forms of political risk legal regulatory and technocratic changes in the host country toward the much rarer dramatic and cataclysmic event He proposes instead a model based on a micro or project specific analysis and demonstrates how to integrate this analysis and the information it generates into actual international planning and operational decisions abroad Business and Technological Dynamics in Newly Industrializing Asia Wenlee Ting, 1985-03-20 Comparison industrial development trends 1960 1981 technological change market planning Hong Kong Korea R Singapore Taiwan China industrialization policy choice of product technology transfer Innovation business organization multinational enterprise from newly industrializing countries foreign investment Bibliography diagrams statistical tables In the Hurricane's Eye Raymond Vernon, 1998-11-30 The world's multinational enterprises face a spell of rough weather political economist Ray Vernon argues not only from the host countries in which they have established their subsidiaries but also from their home countries Such enterprises a few thousand in number including Microsoft Toyota IBM Siemens Samsung and others now generate about half of the world's industrial output and half of the world's foreign trade so any change in the relatively benign climate in which they have operated over the past decade will create serious tensions in international economic relations The warnings of such a change are already here In the United States interests such as labor are increasingly hostile to what they see as the costs and uncertainties of an open economy In Europe those who want to preserve the social safety net and those who feel that the net must be dismantled are increasingly at odds In Japan the talk of hollowing out takes on a new urgency as the country's lifetime employment practices are threatened and as public and private institutions are subjected to unaccustomed stress The tendency of multinationals in different countries to find common cause in open markets strong patents and trademarks and international technical standards has been viewed as a loss of national sovereignty and a weakening of the nation state system producing hostile reactions in home countries The challenge for policy makers Vernon argues is to bridge the quite different regimes of the multinational enterprise and the nation state Both have a major role to play and yet must make basic changes in their practices and policies to accommodate each other

Risk Taking and Decision Making, 1998-02 Risks are an integral part of complex high stakes decisions and decisionmakers are faced with the unavoidable tasks of assessing risks and forming risk preferences This is true for all decision domains including financial environmental and foreign policy domains among others How well decisionmakers deal with risk affects to a considerable extent the quality of their decisions This book provides the most comprehensive analysis available of the elements that influence risk judgments and preferences The book has two dimensions theoretical and comparative historical The study of risk taking behavior has been dominated by the rational choice approach Instead the author adopts a socio cognitive approach involving a multivariate theory integrating contextual cognitive motivational and personality factors that affect an individual decisionmaker s judgment and preferences the social interaction and structural effects of the decisionmaking group and its organizational setting and the role of cultural societal values and norms that sanction or discourage risk taking behavior The book s theoretical approach is applied and tested in five historical case studies of foreign military interventions The richly detailed empirical data on the case studies make them metaphorically speaking an ideal laboratory for applying a process tracing approach in studying judgment and decision processes at varying risk levels The case studies analyzed are U S interventions in Grenada in 1983 and Panama in 1989 both low risk Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia in 1968 moderate risk U S intervention in Vietnam in 1964 68 high risk and Israel s intervention in Lebanon in 1982 83 high risk
