External Relations Dept.,2003-08-22 This paper highlights that the Washington Consensus helped fill the need for an economic policy framework following the discrediting of central planning and import substitution trade strategies Latin American governments championed the Consensus in the early 1990s and the policy agenda delivered some of the things it was supposed to healthier budgets lower inflation lower external debt ratios and economic growth But unemployment rose in many countries and poverty remained widespread while the emphasis on market openness made states vulnerable to the side effects of globalization Readings on Inequality in Kenya ,2006 IMF Survey International Monetary Fund,1996 Africa at a Turning Point? Delfin Sia Go,John Page,2008-04-14 Since the mid 1990s sub Saharan Africa has experienced an acceleration of economic growth that has produced rising incomes and faster human development However this growth contrasts with the continent's experience between 1975 and 1995 when it largely missed out on two decades of economic progress. This disparity between Africa's current experience and its history raises questions about the continent's development. Is there a turnaround in Africa's economy? Will growth persist? Africa at a Turning Point is a collection of essays that analyzes three interrelated aspects of Africa's recent revival. The first set of essays examines Africa's recent growth in the context of its history of growth accelerations and collapses. It seeks to answer such questions as: Is Africa at a turning point? Are the economic fundamentals finally pointing toward more sustainable growth? The second set of essays looks at donor flows which play a large role in Africa's growth. These essays focus on such issues as the management and delivery of increased aid and the history and volatility of donor flows to Africa. The third set of essays considers the recent impact of one persistent threat to sustained growth in Africa: commodity price shocks, particularly those resulting from fluctuations in oil prices.

It is widely agreed that reducing poverty in Africa south of the Sahara (SSA) depends largely on stimulating growth in agriculture. To this end, heads of state in Africa rallied to form the pan-African Comprehensive African Agriculture Development Programme (CAADP) with the goal of raising investments and improving strategy implementation. However, while implementing an agricultural agenda under the CAADP framework, more and more countries have realized that increasing public investment in agriculture alone is not enough. Policy can play an important role, not only to make public investment more efficient but also is crucial for incentivizing private sector and farmer investment in agriculture. Against this backdrop, this paper takes stock of current agricultural policies in SSA with a view to identifying policies that are working as well as areas for improvement. The paper examines policies to encourage the adoption of agricultural inputs, initiate greater private sector investment in agriculture and agro-industries, and manage price volatility while encouraging openness. The paper further reviews successful land tenure policies and property rights systems, reviews the evidence on the synergies between agriculture and nutrition, and examines how CAADP is laying the institutional architecture for improved policy formulation in Africa. In general, the paper finds that although substantial progress has been made, there is considerable scope for improvement. This is not surprising.

given the relatively primitive and deeply rooted nature of smallholder farming in Africa Evidence synthesized in the paper supports the view that most policies cannot be implemented in isolation Rather policies tend to be most effective when implemented along with complementary policies and public investments Kenya National Assembly Official Record (Hansard) ,1996-06-19 The official records of the proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Colony and Protectorate of Kenya the House of Representatives of the Government of Kenya and the National Assembly of the Republic of Kenya
