Parno,2013-02-06 This collection of essays in Archaeologies of Mobility and Movement draws inspiration from current archaeological interest in the movement of individuals things and ideas in the recent past Movement is fundamentally concerned with the relationships among time object person and space The volume argues that understanding movement in the past requires a shift away from traditional fieldwork based archaeological ontologies towards fluid trajectory based studies Archaeology by its very nature locates objects frozen in space literally in their three dimensional matrices at sites that are often stripped of people An archaeology of movement must break away from this stasis and cut new pathways that trace the boundary crossing contextuality inherent in object person mobility Essays in this volume build on these new approaches confronting issues of movement from a variety of perspectives They are divided into four sections based on how the act of moving is framed The groups into which these chapters are placed are not meant to be unyielding or definitive The first section Objects in Motion includes case studies that follow the paths of material culture and its interactions with groups of people The second section of this volume People in Motion features chapters that explore the shifting material traces of human mobility Chapters in the third section of this book Movement through Spaces illustrate the effects that particular spaces have on the people and objects who pass through them Finally there is an afterward that cohesively addresses the issue of studying movement in the recent past At the heart of Archaeologies of Mobility and Movement is a concern with the hybridity of people and things affordances of objects and spaces contemporary heritage issues and the effects of movement on archaeological subjects in the recent and contemporary past     Promised Land Steven Craig Harper, 2006 Focusing on the Walking Purchase as the central event in the long process of dispossessing Delawares both geographically and ethnically Steven Harper observes the transformation of a fragile if generally peaceful middle ground habitable by Delawares and English on negotiable terms to an English colony determined to possess a boundless landscape by fraud and force
