Journey to the Edge of Reason Stephen Budiansky, 2021-05-11 A remarkable account of Kurt G del weaving together creative genius mental illness political corruption and idealism in the face of the turmoil of war and upheaval At age 24 a brilliant Austrian born mathematician published a mathematical result that shook the world Nearly a hundred years after Kurt G del s famous 1931 paper On Formally Undecidable Propositions appeared his proof that every mathematical system must contain propositions that are true yet never provable within that system continues to pose profound questions for mathematics philosophy computer science and artificial intelligence His close friend Albert Einstein with whom he would walk home every day from Princeton's famous Institute for Advanced Study called him the greatest logician since Aristotle He was also a man who felt profoundly out of place in his time rejecting the entire current of 20th century philosophical thought in his belief that mathematical truths existed independent of the human mind and beset by personal demons of anxiety and paranoid delusions that would ultimately lead to his tragic end from self starvation Drawing on previously unpublished letters diaries and medical records Journey to the Edge of Reason offers the most complete portrait yet of the life of one of the 20th century's greatest thinkers Stephen Budiansky's account brings to life the remarkable world of philosophical and mathematical creativity of pre war Vienna and documents how it was barbarically extinguished by the Nazis He charts G del's own hair's breadth escape from Nazi Germany to the scholarly idyll of Princeton and the complex gently humorous sensitive and tormented inner life of this iconic but previously enigmatic giant of modern science Weaving together G del's public and private lives this is a tale of creative genius mental illness political corruption and idealism in the face of the turmoil of war and upheaval Grand Pursuit Sylvia Nasar, 2011-05-10 From the author of A Beautiful Mind a sweeping history of the invention of modern economics that takes you from Dickens London to modern Calcutta Beyond Classical Narration Jan Alber, Per Krogh Hansen, 2014-07-28 This collection of essays looks at two important manifestations of postclassical narratology namely transmedial narratology on the one hand and unnatural narratology on the other The articles deal with films graphic novels computer games web series the performing arts journalism reality games music musicals and the representation of impossibilities The essays demonstrate how new media and genres as well as unnatural narratives challenge classical forms of narration in ways that call for the development of analytical tools and modelling systems that move beyond classical structuralist narratology The articles thus contribute to the further development of both transmedial and unnatural narrative theory two of the most important manifestations of postclassical narratology Cultural Writings of Franz Rosenzweig Barbara E. Galli, 2000-06-01 Published here in English for the first time these essays offer a glimpse into the cultural and social dimensions of Franz Rosenzweig's thought an aspect of his philosophy that has too often been ignored by an overemphasis on his status as a religious thinker Barbara E Galli provides a broader context for Rosenzweig's concepts especially his orientation in the modern world and concerns regarding modernity and technological developments Galli's overriding theme of Rosenzweig and the modern world bridges his philosophical perspective on pagans Christians and Jews with his views of Moses Mendelssohn the cultural significance of Lessing the writing of Stefan George and even the modern phenomenon of the concert hall as recorded on the phonograph As Galli explicates Rosenzweig's cultural musings devotees of Rosenzweig will find new and refreshing approaches to his philosophical writings The Quest for Redemption Rares G. PiloIU, 2018-09-15 The Quest for Redemption Central European Jewish Thought in Joseph Roth's Works by Rares PiloIU fills an important gap in Roth scholarship placing Roth's major works of fiction for the first time in the context of a generational interest in religious redemption among the Jewish intellectuals of Central Europe. In it, PiloIU argues that Roth's challenging, often contradictory and ambivalent literary output is the result of an attempt to recast moral, political and historical realities of an empirically observable world in a new religiously transfigured reality through the medium of literature. This diegetic recasting of phenomenological encounters with the real is an expression of Roth's belief that since the self and the world are in a continuing state of crisis issuing from their separation in modernity, a restoration of their unity is necessary to redeem the historical existence of individuals and communities alike. PiloIU notes, however, that Roth's enterprise in this is not unique to his work but rather is shared by an entire generation of Central European Jewish intellectuals. This generation, disillusioned by modernity's excessive secularism, rationalism and nationalism, sought a radical solution in the revival of mystical religious traditions, above all in the Judaic idea of messianic redemption. Their use of the Chasidic notion of redemption was highly original in that it stripped the notion of its original theological meaning and applied it to the secular experience of reality. As a result, Roth's quest for redemption is a quest for a salvation of the individual, not outside but within history.

Project of Crisis Marco Biraghi, 2013-08-30. An examination of the influential Italian architectural historian, Manfredo Tafuri's historical construction of contemporary architecture. The influential Italian architectural historian, Manfredo Tafuri (1935-1994) invoked the productive possibilities of crisis, writing that history is a project of crisis (progetto di crisi). In this entry in the Writing Architecture series, Marco Biraghi explores Tafuri's multifaceted and often knotty oeuvre, using the historian's concept of a project of crisis as a lens through which to examine his historical construction of contemporary architecture. Mindful of Tafuri's statement that there is no such thing as criticism, only history, Biraghi carefully maps the influences on Tafuri's writing: Walter Benjamin, Karl Krauss, Massimo Cacciari and the architect Ludovico Quaroni, among others, in order to create a portrait of one of the most complex minds in twentieth-century architecture and architectural history. Tracing an arc from Tafuri's first articles in the magazine Contropiano to the idea of contradiction at the center of the project of crisis, Biraghi cites Tafuri's writing on some of his contemporaries, including Louis Kahn, Le Corbusier, Robert Venturi, Aldo Rossi and the Five Architects: Peter Eisenman, Michael Graves, Charles Gwathmey, John Hejduk and Richard Meier. Tafuri's historical construction of the contemporary, Biraghi explains, is based on the idea that the past is open, providing the present with ever-changing and indeterminate form. There is no contradiction between Tafuri the historian and Tafuri the contemporary critic; only the greatest possible integration. The importance of Tafuri's interpretation of architecture goes beyond mere academic or historiographic interest, Biraghi argues. Tafuri's notion of the project of crisis is fundamentally important in understanding our present-day architectural condition.
