The Last Tucker:

Tucker's Island Gretchen F. Coyle and Deborah C. Whitcraft, 2015 Once located between Great Bay and Little Egg Harbor along the New Jersey coast Tucker's Island disappeared into the Atlantic Ocean Sand dunes and native foliage once covered its eight miles For generations the Rider family kept the light illuminated and the US Life Saving Service provided aid to ships in distress Two hotels were constructed by island men with building materials salvaged from local shipwrecks Visitors arrived by sail or steam and the popularity of Tucker's Island inspired real estate agents to sell worthless lots to unsuspecting buyers eager for their own piece of the shore Storms battered the vulnerable island the lighthouse toppled in 1927 the life saving station washed away and in 1932 the island was removed from tax records Tucker's Last Stand

Boudreau,2006-04-04 In 1787 Benjamin Rush cautioned that public punishments were dangerous to the social and legal authority of the new nation For Rush irrepressible human sentiments all but guaranteed that public punishments would turn spectators against the institutions responsible for the punishments Although public executions of criminals ended early in the 19th century debate over the morality of capital punishment has continued to this day In this unique and fascinating glimpse into public reactions to prominent executions from colonial times to the 1990s Kristin Boudreau focuses on the central role of populist often ephemeral literary forms in shaping attitudes toward capital punishment Surveying popular poems ballads plays and novels she shows that at key times of social unrest in American history many Americans have felt excluded by the political and legal processes and have turned instead to inexpensive literary forms of expression in an attempt to change the course of history Among the significant capital cases that the author discusses are the Haymarket anarchist trial of 1886 the lynching of Leo Frank in 1914 the murder of Emmett Till in 1955 and its effects on the Civil Rights movement Norman Mailer's treatment of the Gary Gilmore case in the 1979 novel The Executioner's Song and the 1998 execution of Karla Faye Tucker a convicted murderer who became a born again Christian on death row In the concluding chapter Boudreau examines contemporary writers musicians actors and other artists who are using their artistic media to influence official policies of states that permit capital punishment By examining these neglected texts Boudreau brings to light a compelling story about ordinary Americans fighting an entrenched legal system at times of great national crisis The Lincoln Assassination William C.
