Perspectives and Policies on ICT in Society Jacques Berleur,Chrisanthi Avgerou,2006-01-20 Governments the media the information technology industry and scientists publicly argue that information and communication technologies ICT will bring about an inevitable transition from industrial to information or knowledge based economies and societies It is assumed that all aspects of our economic and social lives in both the public and private spheres will be radically different from what they are today The World Summit on the Information Society Geneva 2003 Tunis 2005 shows the importance of a worldwide reflection on those topics Perspectives and Policies on ICT in Society explores the ICT policies of different nations and regions such as Africa China Europe and India The authors assess the arguments surrounding the impending new age as well as some of the more sensitive issues of its developments This progress will signal an expansion of ICT in many domains the so called ubiquity such as in the workplace the home government and education and it will affect privacy and professional ethics The expansion will also encompass all parts of the earth particularly developing countries Such growth must take place in the context of historical dimensions and should underscore the accountability of professionals in the field The intent of this book is to address these issues and to serve as a handbook of IFIP s TC9 Computers and Society committee Thirty authors from twelve countries consider the ICT policies with their associated perspectives and they explore what may be the information age and the digital society of tomorrow The book provides reflection on today s complex society and addresses the uncertain developments rising from an increasingly global and technologically connected world Jacques Berleur is at the University of Namur Belgium and Chrisanthi Avgerou at the London School of Economics United Kingdom The Social and Economic Impact of New Technology 1978-84: A Select Bibliography Leslie Grayson,2012-12-06 Silicon chip technology microprocessor technology information technology or quite simply new technology These are some of the names representing the microelectronics revolution depending upon the audience being addressed by speaker or writer No previous new industrial development has caused such widespread publicity and discussion amongst users and researchers as the new technology Concern is being expressed about the effects of new technology on employment job satisfaction social life leisure activities and the economics of commerce and industry The late 70s saw many doom laden predictions of those effects but by

1983 both management and trade unions were taking a more objective view of the social and economic impacts and many correspondents now see the new technology as a means of opening up new industries and overcoming the effects of world recessions The chip has involved the factory floor the office the supermarket and the home Electronic funds transfer electronic shopping microelectronic domestic appliances word processors and microprocessor controlled machinery mean that the new technology has pervaded all aspects of social and economic life and the developed countries are now coming to accept it as part of society as a whole Inevitably the flood of literature on the social and economic impacts of new technology has been overwhelming Unfortunately the quality of information and arguments propagated at conferences in journal papers and research reports has indicated that there has been little quantifiable evidence available on the effects of these impacts
