Spires,2024-04-18 This Element traces the history of and recent developments in the unstable relationship between global civil society GCS and China It analyses the normative impacts GCS has had on China including the Chinese state and domestic civil society and the possibilities created by Beijing s new going out policies for Chinese civil society groups It examines the rhetoric and reality of GCS as an emancipatory project and argues that universal values underpinned by principles of human rights and democracy have gained currency in China despite official resistance from the government It argues that while the Chinese party state is keen to benefit from GCS engagement Beijing is also determined to minimize any impact outside groups might have on regime security The Element concludes with some observations about future research directions and the internationalization of Chinese civil society
