The Incas And The Aztecs A Story Of Genocide:

Lemkin on Genocide Raphael Lemkin, 2012-01-01 Providing an annotated commentary on two unpublished manuscripts written by international law and genocide scholar Raphael Lemkin Steven L Jacobs offers a critical introduction to the father of genocide studies Lemkin coined the term genocide and was the motivating force behind the 1948 United Nations Convention on the Punishment and Prevention of the Crime of Genocide The materials collected here give readers further insight into this singularly courageous man and the issue which consumed him in the aftermath of the Second World War It is a welcome addition to the library of genocide and Holocaust Studies scholars and students alike Genocide by Any Other Name... . Is Still Genocide N. Nkosi Mundari, 2012-10 The Origins of Genocide Dominik J. Schaller, Jürgen Zimmerer, 2013-09-13 This year the United Nations celebrated the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide adopted in December 1948 It is time to recognize the man behind this landmark in international law At the beginning were a few words New conceptions require new terms By genocide we mean the destruction of a nation or of an ethnic group Rarely in history have paradigmatic changes in scholarship been brought about with such few words Putting the quintessential crime of modernity in only one sentence Raphael Lemkin 1900 1959 the Polish Jewish specialist in international law not only summarized the horrors of the National Socialist Crimes which were still underway when he coined the term genocide in 1944 but also influenced international law As the founding figure of the UN Genocide Convention Lemkin is finally getting the respect he deserves Less known is his contribution to historical scholarship on genocide Until his death Lemkin was working on a broad study on genocides in the history of humankind Unfortunately he did not manage to publish it The contributions in this book offer for the first time a critical assessment not only of his influence on international law but also on historical analysis of mass murders showing the close connection between both This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Genocide Research Critical Thinking Using Primary Sources in U.S. History Wendy S. Wilson, Gerald H. Herman, 2000-08 The Great Big Book of Horrible Things Matthew White, 2011-10-25 A compulsively readable and utterly original account of world history from an atrocitologist s point of view Evangelists of human progress meet their opposite in Matthew White s epic examination of history s one hundred most violent events or in White s piquant phrasing the numbers that people want to argue about Reaching back to 480 BCE s second Persian War White moves chronologically through history to this century s war in the Congo and devotes chapters to each event where he surrounds hard facts time and place and succinct takeaways who usually gets the blame with lively military social and political histories With the eye of a seasoned statistician White assigns each entry a ranking based on body count and in doing so he gives voice to the suffering of ordinary people that inexorably has defined every historical epoch By turns droll insightful matter of fact and ultimately sympathetic to those who died The Great Big Book of Horrible Things gives readers a chance to reach their own conclusions while offering a stark reminder of the darkness of the human heart The Holocaust and Historical Methodology Dan Stone, 2012 This book is timely and necessary and often extremely challenging It brings together an impressive cast of scholars spanning several academic generations Anyone interested in writing about the Holocaust should read this book and consider the implications of what is written here for their own work There seems to me little doubt that Holocaust history writing stands at something of a cross roads and the ways forward that this volume points to are extremely thought provoking Tom Lawson University of Winchester

The Avatar of 1786: Decolonizing the Penang Story Ahmad Murad Merican, 2023-10-11 There must be a closure to the history of Pulau Pinang and Kedah There was no 1786 treaty no agreement no document no signatories The narrative continues independent of each other representing an uncomfortable conscience glancing at each as two separate polities of Penang and Kedah socially and intellectually structured by the year 1786 This book makes a strange revisit to pretension of a fact event And it counters the terra nullius doctrine It also establishes that the lex loci was the Adat Temenggong customary law modified by the Qanun laws of Kedah Malay collective memory maintains that Pulau Pinang is integral to the Kedah Sultanate The island has law order and society before the presence of the Europeans not a band of natives and fishermen as stereotyped by the colonial narrative even in the colonial courts The Malays in Pulau Pinang in recent decades have become beggars to their own history This book contests that history through moral and legal arguments as well as raising the themes and issues of representation and redemption

Why the West Can't Win Fadi Lama, 2023-05-01 Geopolitical upheaval has gripped the world since collapse of the Soviet Union During the 1990s the West focused on eliminating the resurgence of Russia as a great power This led to the assimilation of Warsaw Pact countries into NATO two Chechen wars and political systems in the Central Asian republics aligned with the West Russia's economic destruction was managed by the Harvard boys shock therapy which left Russian resources in the control of a few oligarchs aligned with the West By the end of the 1990s Russia was a weak bankrupt country of marginalized influence in the world

Then the West's focus turned to China as a potential challenger to western global hegemony. It was thought to suffice to control global energy resources and sea lanes to China to prevent China from challenging western global hegemony. Hence the first two decades of the millennium were focused on controlling West Asia and North Africa's energy resources. For most the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991 signaled the victory of the self-denominated Free World. Why the West Can't Win however addresses how events in the three following decades signal the end of a millennium of West European expansionism: a plundering and oppression initially labeled Crusades when the popes embodied political power morphing into colonialism; then to the Free World when colonialism went out of fashion post World War II; and at last to the International Community after the collapse of the Soviet Union. This book's geopolitical analysis includes a historical overview, an understanding of the financial systems established at the Bretton Woods conference that continue dominating the global economy, how they are used as a powerful geopolitical instrument, an economic analysis based on real goods production, global energy dynamics, alliances and strategies of key global players. It addresses the emerging division of the world into two geopolitical groups: Western Europe, North America, Australia, New Zealand, and Africa; Asia and Latin America. The current global geopolitical clash is in essence a struggle between the colonial powers wishing to preserve the Bretton Woods system that allows siphoning wealth of nations and sovereign nations striving for independence and an end to a millennium of oppression. This work compares the geopolitical forces since the turn of the millennium with a view to providing insight into their relative strengths and the likely outcome of this struggle.

A World History of Christianity Adrian Hastings, 2000-07-05 This superb volume provides the first genuinely global one-volume history of the rise and development of the Christian faith. An international team of specialists takes seriously the geographical diversity of the Christian story, discussing the impact of Christianity not only in the West but also in Latin America, Africa, India, the Orient, and Australasia.

The New Atheist Denial of History B. Painter, 2014-11-19 This compact, forcefully argued work calls Sam Harris, Richard Dawkins, Steven Pinker, and the rest of the so-called New Atheists to account for failing to take seriously the historical record to which they so freely appeal when attacking religion. The popularity of such books as Harris's The End of Faith, Dawkins's The God Delusion, and Christopher Hitchens' God Is Not Great set off a spate of reviews, articles, and books for and against; yet in all the controversy, little attention has focused on the historical evidence and arguments they present to buttress their case. This book is the first to challenge in depth the distortions of this New Atheist history. It presents the evidence that the three authors and their allies ignore. It points out the lack of historical credibility in their work when judged by the conventional criteria used by mainstream historians. It does not deal with the debate over theism and atheism, nor does it aim to defend the historical record of Christianity or religion more generally. It does aim to defend the integrity of history as a discipline in the face of its distortion by those who violate it.

Genocide Norman M. Naimark, 2017 Genocide occurs in every time period and on every continent Using the 1948 U N definition of genocide as its departure point this book examines the main episodes in the history of genocide from the beginning of human history to the present Norman M Naimark lucidly shows that genocide both changes over time depending on the character of major historical periods and remains the same in many of its murderous dynamics He examines cases of genocide as distinct episodes of mass violence but also in historical connection with earlier episodes Unlike much of the literature in genocide studies Naimark argues that genocide can also involve the elimination of targeted social and political groups providing an insightful analysis of communist and anti communist genocide He pays special attention to settler sometimes colonial genocide as a subject of major concern illuminating how deeply the elimination of indigenous peoples especially in Africa South America and North America influenced recent historical developments At the same time the classic cases of genocide in the twentieth Century the Armenian Genocide the Holocaust Rwanda and Bosnia are discussed together with recent episodes in Darfur and Congo
