Reading the Animal Text in the Landscape of the Damned Mitchell, Les, 2019-10-22 Reading the animal text in the landscape of the damned looks at the diverse texts of our everyday world relating to nonhuman animals and examines the meanings we imbibe from them It describes ways in which we can explore such artefacts especially from the perspective of groups and individuals with little or no power This work understands the oppression of nonhuman animals as being part of a spectrum incorporating sexism racism xenophobia economic exploitation and other forms of oppression The enquiry includes physical landscapes the law women's rights history slavery language use economic coercion farming animal experimentation and much more Reading the animal text in the landscape of the damned is an academic work but is accessible theoretically based but robustly practical and it encourages the reader to take this enquiry further for both themselves and for others

Elements of Visual Design in the Landscape Simon Bell, 2013-03 Public concern about the landscape in particular its appearance is increasing all the time For those charged with managing developing or conserving a wide range of landscapes it is a major task to take visual aspects into account Elements of Visual Design in the Landscape presents a vocabulary of visual design structured in a logical and easy to follow sequence It is profusely illustrated using both abstract and real examples taken from a wide range of international locations together with cross referencing between related principles and case studies demonstrating how the principles can be applied in practice The visual aspects of design have often been treated as cosmetic and therefore not meriting attention or purely subjective and therefore open to personal preference Few attempts have been made to explain how we see the landscape in any rational and structured way and to demonstrate how visually creative design and management can be undertaken This book aims to fill that gap

Reading the Landscape Peter Watson, 2014-03-17 It is not only what we see but how we see that makes a difference In his sequel to Capturing the Light Peter Watson revisits the often delicate process of interpreting and capturing landscapes in photography His almost scientific approach challenges us to see like an artist and seize creative opportunities whilst comprehensive tools and techniques coverage allow us to put his theories into practice with impressive results

Strategic Environmental Assessment: Integrating Landscape and Urban Planning Fabio Cutaia,2016-07-20 This book explores the opportunities offered by Strategic Environmental Assessment in the context of guaranteeing the synchronized integration of landscape in all its aspects within urban plans thereby helping to overcome the constraints of rigidly framed sector focused laws and a purely aesthetic concept of landscape In pursuit of this goal various scholars have previously attempted to construct arrays of indicators relating to the different conceptions of landscape This book critically examines the most complete proposals of this nature systematizing and comparing them and finally offering some guidelines with respect to their codification within specific application protocols After opening chapters exploring the origins of the problem and analysing the European normative frame for Strategic Environmental Assessment two case studies are described and discussed A model is then presented for the evaluation of the effects of urban plans on landscape including in cultural and perceptual terms The author demonstrates that when suitably employed Strategic Environmental Assessment can indeed facilitate the integration of environmental economic and social sustainability into urban planning A Guide to Cultural Landscape Reports Robert R. Page,Cathy Gilbert,Susan Dolan,1998 The Changing Landscape of a Utopia

Shmuel Burmil, Ruth Enis, 2011 This book appears on the 100 year celebration of the kibbutz movement a century since the establishment of the first kibbutz Deganya Alef in 1910 The kibbutz started as a farming community and over the years has defined and developed its unique ideology of social and economic aspects of self rule equality mutual responsibility and common ownership of the means of production The kibbutz that some define as an utopian community has gradually developed into a community with diverse means of production including leading international industries The book describes the development of the unique system of zoning with landscape and gardens that strongly reflect the ideology This uniqueness was developed while rooted in the Western international tradition of landscape architecture with planners and designers educated mainly in central Europe The book describes the different periods and styles in the development of the kibbutz landscape as well as some of the main landscape issues and elements such as the dominant tree species and the circle It also describes in detail some of the key people involved in the development of the kibbutz landscape and gardens landscape gardeners landscape architects and kibbutz gardeners The dramatic political and economic changes that occurred in Israel have not bypassed the kibbutz for they caused changes in kibbutz ideology and the community's social and economic structures These changes and the changes that they have caused and are still causing in the kibbutz landscape are carefully detailed in the last chapter The dramatic changes in the kibbutz landscape have also led to a discussion of the need for landscape conservation as well and some examples are described

The Stylistics of Landscapes, the Landscapes of Stylistics John Douthwaite, Daniela Francesca Viridis, Elisabetta Zurru, 2017-11-15 In treating the topic of the landscapes of stylistics this book provides a series of chapters which deal not only with physical landscapes but also with social mental historical portraits of places people and society The chapters demonstrate that all texts project a worldview even when the content appears to be only a physical description of the external world The implication is that texts attempt to produce specific effects on the reader determined by the author's worldview Contents and effects namely mental and emotional states behaviours are thus inseparable Identifying those effects and how they are produced is an eminently cognitive operation The chapters analyse a variety of linguistic devices and cognitive mechanisms employed in producing the text and accounting for the effects achieved Though the majority of the chapters have a cognitive basis a wide range of methodologies are employed including ecostylistics offering cutting edge theoretical approaches teamed up with close reading A further crucial feature of this collection is the selection of non canonical texts ranging from lesser known texts in English to significant works in languages other than English all of which are characterised by important social themes thus emphasising the importance of critical appreciation as a means of self empowerment

Aspiring to the Landscape Petra Halkes, 2006-01-01 The idea of nature as a cultural construction has been discussed extensively in postmodern theory Less attention however has been paid to the underlying motivations shaping the ideologies of nature in particular the desire to submit to some larger order outside of oneself Aspiring to the Landscape examines this persistent desire and how it is made manifest in contemporary landscape art Four installations of large scale paintings by Canadian artists Eleanor Bond Susan Feindel Stephen Hutchings and Wanda Koop are the focus of Petra Halkes's study The works vary widely in style and iconography but are drawn together by the way they invite a reflection on the troubled relationship between culture and nature and our contradictory and simultaneous longing to conquer and to succumb to nature It is the tension between modern and postmodern interpretations of the subject of nature that makes the theory and the artwork discussed in Aspiring to the Landscape so important to contemporary Canadian culture
