Britain Richard Blakemore, James Davey, 2015-10-01 Britain's emergence as one of Europe's major maritime powers has all too frequently been subsumed by nationalistic narratives that focus on operations and technology This volume by contrast offers a daring new take on Britain's maritime past It brings together scholars from a range of disciplines to explore the manifold ways in which the sea shaped British history demonstrating the number of approaches that now have a stake in defining the discipline of maritime history The chapters analyse the economic social and cultural contexts in which English maritime endeavour existed as well as discussing representations of the sea The contributors show how people from across the British Isles increasingly engaged with the maritime world whether through their own lived experiences or through material culture The volume also includes essays that investigate encounters between English voyagers and indigenous peoples in Africa and the intellectual foundations of imperial ambition Parliamentary Debates Australia. Hunting the Collectors Susan Cochrane, Max Quanchi, 2014-11-10 This volume investigates Pacific collections held in Australian museums art galleries and archives and the diverse group of 19th and 20th century collectors responsible for their acquisition The nineteen essays reveal varied personal and institutional motivations that eventually led to the conservation preservation and exhibition in Australia of a remarkable archive of Pacific Island material objects art and crafts photographs and documents Hunting the Collectors benchmarks the importance of Pacific Collections in Australia and is a timely contribution to the worldwide renaissance of interest in Oceanic arts and cultures The essays suggest that the custodial role is not fixed and immutable but fluctuates with the perceived importance of the collection which in turn fluctuates with the level of national interest in the Pacific neighbourhood This cyclical rise and fall of Australian interest in the Pacific Islands means many of the valuable early collections in state and later national repositories and institutions have been rarely exhibited or published But as the authors note enthusiastic museum anthropologists curators collection managers and university based scholars across Australia and worldwide have persisted with research on material collected in the Pacific This volume is a very important one for anyone studying the art and material culture of the Pacific It focuses on collections now in Australia Even those well versed in museum collections from the Pacific will learn about many important but little known collectors as well as better known figures like the anthropologists F E Williams and Thomas Farrell the husband of

Beck, 2022-02-16 Wherever the European has trod death seems to pursue the aboriginal So wrote Charles Darwin in 1836 Though there has been considerable discussion concerning their precise demographic impact reflected in the articles here there is no doubt that the arrival of new diseases with the Europeans such as typhus and smallpox had a catastrophic effect on the indigenous population of the Americas and later of the Pacific In the Americas malaria and yellow fever also came with the slaves from Africa themselves imported to work the depopulated land These diseases placed Europeans at risk too and with some resistance to both disease pools Africans could have a better chance of survival Also covered here is the controversy over the origins of syphilis while the final essays look at agricultural consequences of the European expansion in terms of nutrition both in North America and in Europe

Sailors and Traders Alastair Couper, 2020-02-29 Written by a senior scholar and master mariner Sailors and Traders is the first comprehensive account of the maritime peoples of the Pacific It focuses on the sailors who led the exploration and settlement of the islands and New Zealand and their seagoing descendants providing along the way new material and unique observations on traditional and commercial seagoing against the background of major periods in Pacific history The book begins by detailing the traditions of sailors a group whose way of life sets them apart Like all others who live and work at sea Pacific mariners face the challenges of an often harsh environment endure separation from their families for months at a time revere their vessels and share a singular attitude to risk and death The period of prehistoric seafaring is discussed using archaeological data interpretations from interisland exchanges experimental voyaging and recent DNA analysis Sections on the arrival of foreign exploring ships centuries later concentrate on relations between visiting sailors and maritime communities The more intrusive influx of commercial trading and whaling ships brought new technology weapons and differences in the ethics of trade The successes and failures of Polynesian chiefs who entered trading with European type ships are recounted as neglected aspects of Pacific history As foreign owned commercial ships expanded in the region so did colonialism which was accompanied by an increase in the number of sailors from metropolitan countries and a decrease in the employment of Pacific islanders on foreign ships Eventually small scale island entrepreneurs expanded interisland shipping and in 1978 the regional Pacific Forum Line was created by newly independent states This was welcomed as a symbolic return to indigenous Pacific ocean linkages The book's final sections detail the life of the modern Pacific seafarer Most Pacific sailors in the global maritime labor market return home after many months at sea bringing money goods a wider perspective of the world and sometimes new diseases Each of these impacts is analyzed particularly in the case of Kiribati a major supplier of labor to foreign ships
