The Hell of Social Phobia Terry Cunningham,2000-09-01      Social Phobia Donald Capps,2010-04-01 Social phobia is recognized by contemporary psychology as an anxiety disorder that significantly reduces effectiveness in personal interactions Its exaggerated fear of negative evaluation in social situations leads people either to avoid social situations or to experience great discomfort in unavoidable ones In this age of self promotion social phobics can find themselves at a distinct disadvantage in a society that values dominance Social phobics rarely seek treatment for their disorder but they do tend to seek out supportive social affiliation They are likely to attend church services rather than more personally demanding social gatherings Thus religion can be a resource for creative adaptation to life with social phobia This book helps pastoral counselors ministers and other religious partitioners understand social phobia from both the psychological and pastoral theological points of view Donald Capps describes the condition and its psychological roots surveys various therapeutic responses and their effectiveness and points to the possibilities of religious alleviations Throughout he expresses a helpful sensitivity to the lived experience of social phobics and offers insights for healthy and adaptive ways of life For those who experience social phobia and those who interact with them this book will be a valuable resource      The Lived Experience in Mental Health Gary Morris,2016-09-15 The importance of recognising the knowledge and the needs of service users and engaging them more proactively within the care process is now widely acknowledged but it is not always clear how this can come about The Lived Experience of Mental Health highlights individuals own lived and felt mental health experience in order to share their expertise about mental health problems and the care offered This text begins by exploring the importance of engaging with the internal world of those living with various mental health problems and reflecting upon personal narratives as means of expressing and sharing experience as well as the status of these narratives as evidence The central section of the book looks at five commonly experienced mental health states anxiety problems depression mood extremes states of altered reality linked for example with psychosis and schizophrenia and impaired cognition linked for example with dementia The chapters look at how the mental state in question is experienced including the experience of it in the context of the wider world where health and social care services and the responses of other people play a part Drawing on personal narratives from a wide range of sources this text foregrounds the voices of experts by experience and relates them to the academic literature The narratives collectively convey a breadth of experience including both concepts of struggling and living well with mental health issues The book ends by outlining resources where a range of first person narratives can be accessed from online forums to films and providing a strategy for teaching and learning associated with the exploration of lived experience narratives Designed for health professionals working with people experiencing mental health problems this illuminating text uses personal narratives to emphasise the importance of person centred care and participation by services users in their own care It will also be an interesting read for experts by experiences themselves as
