Allen,2018-05-08 About 5 000 years ago the first urban societies developed laying the foundations for the first civilizations Nearly all civilizations share the same few features they have abundant food surpluses contained cities political bureaucracies armies defined religious and social hierarchies and long distance trading Ancient Egyptian culture flourished between c 5500 BCE with the rise of technology as evidenced in the glass work of faience and 30 BCE with the death of Cleopatra VII the last Ptolemaic ruler of Egypt It is famous today for the great monuments which celebrated the triumphs of the rulers and honored the gods of the land The culture is often misunderstood as having been obsessed with death but had this been so it is unlikely it would have made the significant impression it did on other ancient cultures such as Greece and Rome Neolithic means a new stonee even though agriculture was the crowning achievement of the period Civilizations started out small Agriculture at first tended to tie only small groups together These groups also all settled along rivers important as a reliable and predictable source of water As time passed families usually worked the same plot of land over successive generations leading to the concept of ownership Ancient mortars and grinding tools unearthed in a large mound in the Zagros Mountains of Iran reveal that people were grinding wheat and barley about 11 000 years ago Grass pea wild wheat wild barley and lentils were found throughout the site including some of the earliest known samples This was much further east than most sites known for early agriculture This book furnishes with utmost facility to all classes of readers the needed information on ancient civilization The unusual variety of the subject makes this a work of endless fascination

Science and Technology in World History James E. McClellan III,Harold Dorn,2015-12-15 Arguably the best general history of science and technology ever published Tracing the relationship between science and technology from the dawn of civilization to the early twenty first century James E McClellan III and Harold Dorn s bestselling book argues that technology as applied science emerged relatively recently as industry and governments began funding scientific research that would lead directly to new or improved technologies McClellan and Dorn identify two great scientific traditions the useful sciences which societies patronized from time immemorial and the exploration of questions about nature itself which the ancient Greeks originated The authors examine scientific traditions that took root in China India and Central and South America as well as in a series of Near Eastern empires in late antiquity and the Middle Ages From this comparative perspective McClellan and Dorn survey the rise of the West the Scientific Revolution of the seventeenth century the Industrial Revolution and the modern marriage of science and technology They trace the development of world science and technology today while raising provocative questions about the sustainability of industrial civilization This new edition of Science and Technology in World History offers an enlarged thematic introduction and significantly extends its treatment of industrial civilization and the technological supersystem built on the modern electrical grid The Internet and social media receive increased attention Facts and figures have been thoroughly updated and the work includes a comprehensive Guide to Resources incorporating the major published literature along with a vetted list of websites and Internet resources for students and lay readers

Inventing the Industrial Revolution Christine MacLeod, 2002-05-09 This book examines the development of the English patent system and its relationship with technical change during the period between 1660 and 1800 when the patent system evolved from an instrument of royal patronage into one of commercial competition among the inventors and manufacturers of the Industrial Revolution It analyses the legal and political framework within which patenting took place and gives an account of the motivations and fortunes of patentees who obtained patents for a variety of purposes beyond the simple protection of an invention It includes the first in depth attempt to gauge the reliability of the patent statistics as a measure of inventive activity and technical change in the early part of the Industrial Revolution and suggests that the distribution of patents is a better guide to the advance of capitalism than to the centres of inventive activity It also queries

the common assumption that the chief goal of inventors was to save labour and examines contemporary criticism of the patent system in the light of the changing conceptualisation of invention among natural scientists and political economists

The Uniqueness of Western Civilization Ricardo Duchesne,2011-02-07 This extensively researched book argues that the development of a libertarian culture was an indispensable component of the rise of the West The roots of the West s superior intellectual and artistic creativity should be traced back to the aristocratic warlike culture of Indo European speakers Among the many fascinating topics discussed are the ascendancy of multicultural historians and the degradation of European history China s ecological endowments and imperial windfalls military revolutions in Europe 1300 1800 the science and chivalry of Henry the Navigator Judaism and its contribution to Western rationalism the cultural richness of Max Weber versus the intellectual poverty of Pomeranz Wong Goldstone Goody and A G Frank change without progress in the East Hegel s Phenomenology of the Western Spirit Nietzsche and the education of the Homeric Greeks Kojève s master slave dialectic and the Western state of nature Christian virtues and German aristocratic expansionism
