Britt, 2024-04-16 There is no limit to what constitutes heritage By definition heritage is the use of the past for present purposes Yet to any given group or population heritage can be a multitude of things and can serve a variety of purposes Based on shared memory heritage can be tangible or intangible boundless in variety and scope it can be for example objects landscapes food or clothing music or dance sites or statues monuments or buildings Importantly however heritage also has many and varied uses and powers It can be used to control to unite to engage and to empower people communities and nations In this interdisciplinary volume authors from around the world explore how different communities nations and groups intentionally and creatively use heritage both tangible and intangible in a wide variety of ways to positively address social and environmental issues Significantly these studies demonstrate how heritage can be an exceptionally valuable tool for political economic and social change Insightful studies are presented pertaining to heritage as social memory including the nationalistic political use of heritage heritage as resistance to political powers traditional knowledge as environmental science heritage for legal and community action heritage for building peace heritage for Indigenous and minority empowerment and heritage for exploring the past through phenomenological methods The goal of this volume is to move beyond seeing heritage as only social memory a mere interpretation of static past events people or places and instead explores critically the variety of ways heritage is engaged in the present and can be in the future In memory of colonel the honourable Everard Henry Primrose Catherine Lucy W.
