Leithwood, Judith Chapman, P. Corson, P. Hallinger, Ann Hart, 2012-12-06 EDITORS This introduction to the International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration describes some of the motivation for developing the book and several assumptions on which is based much of the work represented in its 31 chapters A synopsis of the contents of those chapters is also provided SOME KEY ASSUMPTIONS It is sometimes suggested that the search for an adequate understanding of leadership is doomed to fail After all there is little evidence of agreement about the concept in spite of prodigious efforts dating back hundreds if not thousands of years Such a view is captured for example in Bennis observation that Of all the hazy and confounding areas in social psychology leadership theory undoubtedly contends for top nomination Probably more has been written and less is known about leadership than any other topic in the behavioural sciences 1959 page 259 We do not find this state of affairs discouraging nor entirely accurate and of course it did not prevent Bennis from proceeding either One reason for our desire to continue in the face of such discouraging words is that a great deal of leadership research aspires to develop a general theory a theory which applies to all or most domains of organized human activity This aspiration inevitably produces decontextualized and therefore abstract categories of practice Howard Gardner's 1995 depiction of leadership as story telling is a case in point Critical Leadership Praxis for Educational and Social Change Katie Pak, Sharon M. Ravitch, 2021 In this edited volume contributors draw on the work of Andrade and Morrell 2008

in articulating critical leadership praxis as well as critical race theory and critical education leadership scholarship in order to offer new and generative theories of change they make explicit power dynamics social inequities and taken for granted forms of stratification in educational organizations with the primary purpose of offering specific and useful frames concepts and practices to educational leaders that they can adopt in their own work The goal is for educational leaders to develop their sense of agency and and their knowledge and professional competencies for taking an equity and inquiry stance in their work of transforming the organizations and people around them The work is intended to provide a counter narrative to a broad literature in educational leadership that reinscribe white middle class male leadership styles values and priorities as an assumed and normative backdrop both in terms of the frames used and the values and epistemologies promoted The work is organized into four sections Transforming Self Transforming Educators Transforming Organizations and Transforming Systems Contributors include practicing leaders doctoral students with leadership experience and leadership faculty and researchers

Educational Leadership and Administration Leithwood et al was published in 1996 and quickly became something of a best seller for reference works within education Such success we suggest was at least partly due to the unprecedented global waves of concern for improving schools launched in the mid 1980 s combined with a widespread belief in leadership as the single most powerful contribution to such improvement The roots of this belief can be found in evidence produced by the early effective schools research although there is a romance with leadership as an explanation for success in many non school enterprises as well During the two year period during which this current handbook was being written activity in the realms of school leadership school improvement and leadership development gained further momentum The English government created its new National College of School Leadership and several Asian nations announced new initiatives in leadership selection preparation and development Educational Leadership and Nancy Fraser Jill Blackmore,2016-06-10 Drawing on the work of Nancy Fraser this book offers a critical view of contemporary educational leadership and reform discourses exploring how her key concepts of redistribution recognition and representation may apply to social and therefore educational justice Fraser offers a political and pragmatic reconciliation between feminist neo Marxist critical and post structuralist theories This book outlines how Fraser has worked on and worked over theories of social justice and how this can inform how we can understand educational theory policy and practice generally In particular the book focuses on the field of educational administration and leadership ELMA as it relates to equity issues such as school choice and inequality gender and inclusive leadership and alternative schooling Fraser s argument about scaling up social justice theory is shown to be highly salient given the emergence of the field of transnational education policy and its role in the context of intensified nation state and edu business competition Overall through the lens of Nancy Fraser s unitary framework this book considers epistemological questions about the nature of knowledge examines the relationship between the state the individual education and social movements addresses the difficulties and dilemmas which arise due to the intersections of gender class race sexuality and culture in a globalized context and illustrates how the principles of social justice can be mobilized by leaders in everyday practice Educational Leadership and Nancy Fraser is an illuminating read for those policymakers researchers and practitioners engaged in the field of educational administration leadership and social justice
