Social Anthropology And Medicine:

The Anthropology of Medicine Lola Romanucci-Ross, Daniel Moerman, Laurence R. Tancredi, 1997-09-30 This long awaited revision of what has now become the classic text in medical anthropology contains a wealth of new material on subjects as diverse as aging creativity and ideology Originally cited in American Anthropologist it is a must reading for all medical anthropologists physicians advanced medical anthropology students and advanced medical students this new edition should prove twice as valuable It is both a comprehensive introduction to the rapidly growing field of medical anthropology and a state of the art reference work The authors bring new perspectives to our understanding of both Western and non Western medicine from the biochemical and physiological aspects of health care in preindustrialized cultures to cultural and ideological factors inherent in past and present Western medical care New chapters focus on ethnobotany placebo and pain shamanism and psychiatry The contributors to this volume examine the acculturation process of healer physician and patient in diverse cultural settings They explore the social and cultural context of medical events as well as the process of medical thought and problem solving Medicine they illustrate embraces or is embraced by both the cultural and biological dimensions of mankind From this perspective they show how human belief knowledge and action structure the experience of disease and affect ways in which doctors healers and patients experience illness and influence the matrix of decision making This book is essential for students and professionals in anthropology medicine and all social science A Reader in Medical

Anthropology Byron J. Good, Michael M. J. Fischer, Sarah S. Willen, Mary-Jo DelVecchio Good, 2010-03-22 A Reader in Medical Anthropology Theoretical Trajectories Emergent Realities brings together articles from the key theoretical approaches in the field of medical anthropology as well as related science and technology studies The editors comprehensive introductions evaluate the historical lineages of these approaches and their value in addressing critical problems associated with contemporary forms of illness experience and health care Presents a key selection of both classic and new agenda setting articles in medical anthropology Provides analytic and historical contextual introductions by leading figures in medical anthropology medical sociology and science and technology studies Critically reviews the contribution of medical anthropology to a new global health movement that is reshaping international health agendas Patients and Healers in the Context of Culture Arthur Kleinman, 1980 Patients and healers in the context of culture an exploration of the borderland between anthropology medicine and psychiatry describes observations of clinical interviews between various medical practitioners namely folk healers temple medicine men and Chinese style and Western style physicians and their patients It stresses the importance of adopting proper cultural perspectives making one's interpretations within that framework and relying on direct observation and urges an integration of social and cultural methods into the routine training of doctors so as to enable a more humane and appropriate clinical practice Medical anthropology is rich with anecdote and description focused on one or another aspect of patients or diseases practitioners or healing symbolisms or religion This book takes us beyond such details and provides an integrating theoretical framework operational models and a systematic methodology of study that will allow the clinician and investigator to avoid the quagmires of ethnocentricity and reductionist formulation The material is based on ten years of comparative cross cultural research of Chinese medical systems at the National Taiwan University Harvard University the University of Washington and the National Institutes of Health The Anthropology of Medicine Lola Romanucci-Ross,1982 Originally cited as must reading in American Anthropologist this new third edition of the classic text contains new and updated materials It is both a comprehensive introduction to the rapidly growing field of medical anthropology and a state of the art reference work on Western and non Western medicine

Understanding and Applying Medical Anthropology Peter J. Brown,Svea Closser,2016-07-01 The editors of the third edition of the seminal textbook Understanding and Applying Medical Anthropology bring it completely up to date for both instructors and students The collection of 49 readings 17 of them new to this edition offers extensive background description and exposes students to the breadth of theoretical methodological and practical perspectives and issues in the field of medical anthropology The text provides specific examples and case studies of research as it is applied to a range of health settings from cross cultural clinical encounters to cultural analysis of new biomedical technologies and the implementation of programs in global health settings The new edition features a major revision that eliminates many older readings in favor of more fresh relevant selections a new section on structural violence that looks at the impact of poverty and other forms of social marginalization on health an updated and expanded section on Conceptual Tools including new research and ideas that are currently driving the field of medical anthropology forward such as epigenetics and syndemics new chapters on climate change Ebola PTSD among Iraq Afghanistan veterans eating disorders and autism among others recent articles from Margaret Mead Award winners Sera Young Seth Holmes and Erin Finley along with new articles by such established medical anthropologists as Paul Farmer and Merrill Singer Social Lives of Medicines Susan Reynolds Whyte,Sjaak van der Geest,Anita Hardon,2002 An anthropological study of the social functions and meanings of medicines in different cultures

Understanding and Applying Medical Anthropology Peter J. Brown,1998 This collection of readings exposes students to the breadth of theoretical viewpoints and issues in the field of medical anthropology The text provides specific examples and case studies of research as it is applied in a range of health settings from clinical encounters to preventive services to international health Social Anthropology and Medicine Association of Social Anthropologists of the Commonwealth,1976 New Horizons in Medical Anthropology Mark Nichter,Margaret M. Lock,2002 These cutting edge essays and case studies on issues like AIDS medical technologies and overpopulation are collected here in honour of Charles Leslie the influential anthropologist The Cultural Context of Health, Illness, and Medicine Elisa J. Sobo,Martha Oehmke Loustau,2010-08-03 A one size fits all approach to health care doesn t work well especially for America s extremely diverse population This book provides a lively and accessible discussion of how and why a more flexible and culturally sensitive system of health care can and must be achieved. Notable anthropologist George Foster defined the first edition as a very readable introductory text dealing with the sociocultural aspects of health. Adding that the authors do a commendable job, I have profited from reading The Cultural Context of Health, Illness and Medicine. With engaging examples, minimal jargon, and updated scholarship, the second edition of The Cultural Context of Health, Illness and Medicine offers a comprehensive guide to the practice of culturally sensitive health care. Readers will see America's biomedically dominated health care system in a new light as the book reveals the changes wrought by increasing cultural diversity, technological innovation, and developments in care delivery. Written by a sociologist and an anthropologist with direct hands-on experience in the health services, the volume tracks culture's influence on and relationship to health, illness, and health care delivery via an examination of social structure, medical systems, and the need for and challenges to culturally sensitive care. Cultural differences are situated against social class differences and related health inequities, as well as different needs and challenges throughout the life course. In prescribing caring that is more holistic, culturally sensitive, and cost-effective, the work promotes awareness of pressing issues for health care professionals and the people they serve.

The Handbook of Social Studies in Health and Medicine Gary L. Albrecht, Ray Fitzpatrick, Susan C. Scrimshaw, 2003-04-21. This book brings together world-class figures to provide an indispensable comprehensive resource book on social science, health, and medicine.

Anthropology in Medical Education Iveris Martinez, Dennis W. Wiedman, 2021-03-04. This volume reflects on how anthropologists have engaged in medical education and aims to positively influence the future careers of anthropologists who are currently engaged or are considering a career in medical education. The volume is essential for medical educators, administrators, researchers, and practitioners; those interested in the history of medicine, global health, sociology of health and illness, medical and applied anthropology. For over a century, anthropologists have served in many roles in medical education: teaching, curriculum development, administration, research, and planning. Recent changes in medical education focusing on diversity, social determinants of health, and more humanistic, patient-centered care have opened the door for more anthropologists in medical schools. The chapter authors describe various ways in which anthropologists have engaged and are currently involved in training physicians in various countries, as well as potential new directions in this field. They address critical topics such as the history of anthropology in medical education, humanism, ethics, and the culture of medicine; interprofessional and collaborative clinical care; incorporating patient perspectives in practice; addressing social determinants of health; health disparities and cultural competence; anthropological roles in planning and implementation of medical education programs; effective strategies for teaching medical students; comparative analysis of systems of care in Japan, Uganda, France, United Kingdom, Mexico, Canada, and throughout the United States; and potential new directions for anthropological engagement with medicine. The volume overall emphasizes the important role of anthropology in educating physicians throughout the world to improve patient care and population health.
