Disclosure Within HIV-Affected Families Grace Gachanja, Gary J. Burkholder, Aimee Ferraro, 2018-08-29 While HIV AIDS is a global public health challenge its impact is arguably greatest in the Sub Saharan Africa SSA where new infections account for approximately 66% of the total number of HIV positive persons globally In SSA medical social and economic resources are limited thus necessitating innovative approaches to disease prevention One of the mechanisms of prevention that is most promising occurs through HIV disclosure to family members e g adult sexual partners generally and to children in particular Our emphasis in this eBook is on HIV disclosure to children because it has multiple benefits including improved adherence to antiretroviral medication treatment and understanding at an early age of the impact of sexual activity on the spread of HIV While there is a noticeable gap in research on HIV disclosure to younger children some of the general reasons for non disclosure include concerns about fear of adult partners leaving relationships and that children are too young to comprehend the severity of the situation and may tell others outside the family Thus it is critical to better understand how the HIV disclosure process happens or does not happen within HIV affected families as well as the best practices on how to disclose In this eBook we present a combination of empirical research studies and critical literature reviews that investigate the reasons for and for not disclosing HIV status within HIV affected families and provide evidence based practices that could be adopted by healthcare professionals to help HIV positive parents facilitate disclosure activities within these families This information can also be used by researchers practitioners and stakeholders who are in a position to influence policies on effective HIV disclosure practices guidelines and programs Evidence-based Nursing Care Guidelines Betty J.

Haile Gabriel, 2008 A Comprehensive Guide for the Care of Persons with HIV Disease Mount Sinai Hospital (Toronto, Ont.), Casey House Hospice, 1995 Clinical Cases in Primary Immunodeficiency Diseases Asghar

Aghamohammadi, Nima Rezaei, 2012-12-13 Primary immunodeficiency diseases PIDs are a heterogeneous group of inherited disorders characterized by different defects in the development and function of the immune system This book aims to increase the clinical awareness and knowledge of practicing clinicians regarding the diagnosis and management of PIDs In order to achieve this goal about 90 cases drawn from real life are presented along with approximately 300 related questions. The selected case reports are the result of the invaluable cooperation of more than 40 scientists in the field of immunodeficiency. They focus both on the presenting features of patients with PIDs and on the required further investigation and management. Each of the numbered cases is followed by the questions, their answers, and additional discussion. Each question focuses on a particular aspect of the PID under consideration and the topics covered include clinical diagnosis, laboratory findings, molecular mechanisms, and therapy. Cumulated Index Medicus, 1995
