Ijams' friend, Kris Light was busy photographing snowflakes yesterday and we are so glad she has allowed us to share her work with you! We love diversity in all things and these snowflakes are no exception!

Kris Light is the science outreach educator for the American Museum of Science and Energy in Oak Ridge. She enjoys using photography to share her love of nature. The snowflakes are caught on black velvet and photographed with a 105mm macro lens and a 36mm extender.

New York City right In fancy offices perched high on the gleaming towers of Manhattan right By mythical creatures just returning from three martini lunches right Wrong wrong wrong And once more just for good measure Once upon a time I was fired Again I d been writing ads for agencies in Chicago Detroit Minneapolis and New York For almost twenty years Then one day I found myself writing them in the sometimes sleepy sometimes far from sleepy little city of Marion Ohio How I got there what I did there and all the rest of it makes a rather interesting story At least to me Although Gertrude Stein famously said There s no there there don t believe it for a minute She sure wasn t talking about Marion Ohio Read on gentle reader read on blizzards and snowstorms The New Education ,1898 Latin Scientific Literature, 1450-1850 Martin Korenjak,2023-09-20 During the early modern period the emergence of what ultimately became modern science took place mainly in Latin the international language of educated discourse of the era Hundreds of thousands of scientific texts were published in Latin from the invention of print around 1450 to the demise of Latin as a language of science around 1850 Despite its importance our knowledge of this literature is extremely limited This book aims to provide an overview of this area the first ever to be written It does so not from the perspective of a natural scientist or a historian of science but of a literary scholar Instead of the scientific content or methodology of the respective works it focusses on the genres of scientific literature and their communicative functions Latin Scientific Literature 1450 1850 falls into two main parts The first part Contexts introduces four aspects of early modern intellectual culture which are crucial for an understanding of the scientific literature of the time the development of science the role of Latin the concept of literature and the rise of print Part two Texts offers an overview of Neo Latin scientific literature Subsumed under five communicative functions disclosing sources presenting facts arguing for certain positions summarizing knowledge and publicizing science twenty pertinent genres are discussed New-York Observer ,1903 The Rural New-Yorker ,1922 Documents of the Assembly of the State
