Racing Cyberculture Christopher L. McGahan, 2013-10-31 Racing Cyberculture explores new media art that challenges the race blind myth of cyberspace. The particular cultural workers whose productions are addressed are the performance and installation artist Guillermo Gomez Pena and Roberto Sifuentes, the UK new media arts collective Mongrel, the conceptual artists and composer Keith Obadike, and the multimedia artist Prema Murthy. The author looks at how works by these artists bring forward questions of racial and cultural identity as they intersect with information technology. Dictionary of American Government and Politics Duncan Watts, 2010-01-31 This Dictionary offers a fresh up to date look at US government and politics explaining and where necessary demystifying the key terms used in discussion of the political system. Major figures, events, ideas, movements, and Supreme Court cases relevant to a study of the American political system are included with the aim of allowing readers to develop a deeper knowledge and understanding of the area. The Dictionary also raises key issues and areas of contention and academic debate. Coverage is comprehensive with c 400 entries each providing analysis of the subject. Terms are presented in an A Z format with cross referencing where appropriate. Ads, Fads, and Consumer Culture Arthur Asa Berger, 2020-08-12 The sixth edition of this approachable text draws on both academic and applied perspectives to offer a lively critique of contemporary advertising's effects on American character and culture. Berger explains how advertising works by employing a psycho-cultural approach encouraging readers to think about advertisements and commercials in more analytical and profound ways. The sixth edition features updated statistics, two new chapters, and new discussions of the role of brands, social media, non-binary perspectives on gender, advertising and the 2020 election, the problem of self-alienation, and how all these elements relate to consumption. Berger also considers the Values and Lifestyle (VALS) and Claritas typologies in marketing. Distinctive chapters examine the 1984 Macintosh commercial, a Fidji perfume advertisement, and a moisturizer advertisement from semiotic, psychoanalytic, sociological, Marxist, mythic, and feminist perspectives. Ads, Fads, and Consumer Culture provides an accessible overview of advertising in the United States spanning issues as diverse as sexuality, politics, market research, consumer culture, and more, and helps readers understand the role that advertising has played and continues to play in all our lives. Sociology David M. Newman, 2018-07-26 This new Brief Sixth Edition of David Newman's text is the streamlined version of Sociology: Exploring the Architecture of Everyday Life with the same goal to be a textbook that in the author's words reads like a real book. Newman shows how to see the unfamiliar in the familiar, to step back and see organization and predictability in our taken-for-granted personal experiences. He uses the metaphors of architecture and construction to help us understand that society is not something that exists out there independently of ourselves; rather, it is a human creation that is planned, maintained, or altered by individuals. Instead of surveying every subfield in sociology, this text focuses on the structural features of society, the social construction of the self and identity, and social inequality in the context of social institutions. Proceedings of a Workshop on Deterring Cyberattacks National Research Council,Policy and Global Affairs,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Computer Science and Telecommunications Board,Committee on Deterring Cyberattacks: Informing Strategies and Developing Options for U.S. Policy,2010-10-30 In a world of increasing dependence on information technology the prevention of cyberattacks on a nation's important computer and communications systems and networks is a problem that looms large Given the demonstrated limitations of passive cybersecurity defense measures it is natural to consider the possibility that deterrence might play a useful role in preventing cyberattacks against the United States and its vital interests At the request of the Office of the Director of National Intelligence the National Research Council undertook a two phase project aimed to foster a broad multidisciplinary examination of strategies for detering cyberattacks on the United States and of the possible utility of these strategies for the U S government The first phase produced a letter report providing basic information needed to understand the nature of the problem and to articulate important questions that can drive research regarding ways of more effectively preventing discouraging and inhibiting hostile activity against important U S information systems and networks The second phase of the project entailed selecting appropriate experts to write papers on questions raised in the letter report A number of experts identified by the committee were commissioned to write these papers under contract with the National Academy of Sciences Commissioned papers were discussed at a public workshop held June 10 11 2010 in Washington D C and authors revised their papers after the workshop Although the authors were selected and the papers reviewed and discussed by the committee the individually authored papers do not reflect consensus views of the committee and the reader should view these papers as offering points of departure that can stimulate further work on the topics discussed The papers presented in this volume are published essentially as received from the authors with some proofreading corrections made as limited time allowed
