

The background of the cover is a detailed photograph of fossilized bones and teeth. The bones are light brown to tan in color, showing various textures and structures. Some bones are long and slender, while others are more robust and curved. The teeth are visible in the lower left corner, showing a series of small, sharp, and slightly curved fangs. The overall composition is a close-up, highlighting the intricate details of the fossilized remains.

Integrated Pest Management and Pest Control Sonia Soloneski, Marcelo Larramendy, 2012-02-24 Integrated Pest Management is an effective and environmentally sensitive approach that relies on a combination of common sense practices. Its programs use current and comprehensive information on the life cycles of pests and their interactions with the environment. This information in combination with available pest control methods is used to manage pest damage by the most economical means and with the least possible hazard to people, property and the environment. Geology and Paleoenvironment of the Oligocene Jebel Qatrani Formation and Adjacent Rocks, Fayum Depression, Egypt Thomas M. Bown, Mary J. Kraus, 1988 Sedimentologic studies of lower Tertiary rocks in the Fayum Depression of Egypt clarify the alluvial environment and paleogeography of northern Egypt during the Eocene-Oligocene Tethyan regression and offer insights into the paleoenvironmental setting of the oldest known higher primates. Biological Abstracts Jacob Richard Schramm, 1929 Rebels, Scholars, Explorers Annalisa Berta, Susan Turner, 2020-10-27 Unearthing the amazing hidden stories of women who changed paleontology forever. For centuries women have played key roles in defining and developing the field of vertebrate paleontology. Yet very little is known about these important paleontologists and the true impacts of their contributions have remained obscure. In Rebels, Scholars, Explorers Annalisa Berta and Susan Turner celebrate the history of women bone hunters delving into their fascinating lives and work. At the same time they explore how the discipline has shaped our understanding of the history of life on Earth. Berta and Turner begin by presenting readers with a review of the emergence of vertebrate paleontology as a science emphasizing the contributions of women to research topics and employment. This is followed by brief biographical sketches and explanations of early discoveries by women around the world over the past 200 years including those who held roles as researchers, educators, curators, artists and preparators. Forging new territory Berta and Turner highlight the barriers and challenges faced by women paleontologists describing how some managed to overcome those obstacles in order to build careers in the field. Finally drawing on interviews with a diverse group of contemporary paleontologists who share their experiences and offer recommendations to aspiring fossil hunters they provide perspectives on what work still needs to be done in order to ensure that women's contributions to the field are encouraged and celebrated. Uncovering and relating lost stories about the pivotal contributions of women in vertebrate paleontology doesn't just make for enthralling storytelling but also helps ensure a richer and more diverse future for this vibrant field. Illuminating the discoveries, collections and studies of fossil vertebrates conducted by women in vertebrate paleontology Rebels, Scholars, Explorers will be on every paleontologist's most wanted list and should find a broader audience in the burgeoning sector of readers from all backgrounds eager to learn about women in the sciences. The Desert Bones Jamale Ijouiher, 2022-11-22 An essential introduction to the age of dinosaurs in Africa. Once Africa was referred to as the Lost World of the dinosaur era so poorly known were its ancient flora and fauna. Worse still many priceless fossil specimens from the Sahara Desert were destroyed during the Second World War. Fortunately in the twentieth-first century more researchers are now working in north Africa than ever before and making fascinating discoveries such as the dinosaur Spinosaurus Based on a decade of study The Desert Bones brings the world of African dinosaurs fully into the light Jamale Ijouiher skillfully draws on the latest research and knowledge about paleoecology to paint a compelling and comprehensive portrait of the mid Cretaceous in North Africa The American Geologist ,1905 Includes section Review of recent geological literature
