Inkster,1976 There is an amusing story of poet Tim Inkster who went searching for the poetic significance of the raven in northern Ontario Stumbling into a local pub after trying to photograph the bird he found a quiet dark little corner to sip his beer and reflect on the day s work Sensing something looking over his shoulder Inkster wheeled around to see a huge stuffed black raven with glass eyes staring him down It was about as large as an eagle and equally forboding This story is a suitable preface to the work in this chapbook The Crown Prince Waits For A Train because the image of the raven is predominant along with the train in dealing with the themes of lost time and the realization of horror For Single Mothers Working as Train Conductors Laura Esther Wolfson,2018-06 Winner of the Iowa Prize for Literary Nonfiction Records and Briefs of the United States Supreme Court ,1832
