G. Rastyannikov, 2024-12-06 India in the 1950s and 1960s with its diversity of economic structures and different levels of regional development offers a unique opportunity to explore a wide range of agrarian evolution within a multiform society Basing his study on an extensive survey of the existing literature as well as on fieldwork conducted in India the author analyses in his book Agrarian Evolution in a Multiform Structure Society first published in English in 1981 the roots of the Indian society and suggests future directions He argues that India like many Asian countries exhibits tendencies peculiar to an economy evolving on the basis of dependent capitalist development The author goes on to show how the state in seeking to ease the teething problems of development has assumed a decisive role expressed in terms of the nationalisation of certain sectors of private exploitative property and in the supersession of private interests by public ones The historically inevitable progress of Indian society is therefore a paradoxical one because its economy exists on the periphery of its system moulding structure world capitalism it has special problems reconciled only by state intervention this in turn makes the development of
